BADGER BRIGADE ORDERED TO SAN ANTONIO

CARRANZA IS GIVEN UNTIL MIDNIGHT TO RELEASE PRISONERS

MEXICO CITY, June 28.—10 a. m.—A conference regarding President Wilson's demands for the release of the American soldiers imprisoned at Chihuahua City is now in progress. It is believed a decision will be reached within a few hours.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The state department expects Carranza's reply to President Wilson's demands for release of American prisoners at Chihuahua, by early afternoon. It was said this belief is based on a telegram from Consul Rodgers which reached the state department shortly before midnight last night.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, June 28.—Carranza has demanded the release of thirty Mexicans arrested along the border in the last two weeks. Most of the captives are police prisoners. Carranza also demands the United States raise the embargo on American merchandise into Mexico.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—General Carranza must release the American prisoners held at Chihuahua by midnight or President Wilson will go after them.

Those close to the president today declared there will be no delay in light of demands from Carranza that Mexican prisoners held in this country be released and the embargo on food supplies into his country lifted. That, according to administration officials, is another question. The president, they declare, is now interested solely in getting some twenty-four soldiers wearing American uniforms out of the penitentiary at Chihuahua City.

So congress, and, in fact all official Washington, is awaiting—quietly and with a calm which approaches seeming unconcern—Carranza's reply.

There is a feeling that the Mexican first chief will yield. It is known positively he intended to release the prisoners at first.

Danger in the situation lies in the possibility of Carranza asking for an exchange of prisoners.

Should Carranza take this position or otherwise delay freedom of the American prisoners, the president would follow the course of the action already determined upon. It does not include a declaration of war. It would mean the rescue of the American soldiers by force, if necessary—however long or arduous the effort. The president would outline his intended course to congress and ask for support to the program.

SMASH THE AUTO MARAUDERS WITH SWEEPING CAMPAIGN AGAINST MUR- DEROUS SPEEDING IN CITY OF LA CROSSE

The La Crosse police department can not escape a large measure of responsibility for the fatal automobile accident of last night, nor is it likely they will be absolved from blame for that of Sunday.

There are today in the files of the police department SCORES, MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED — PERHAPS HUNDREDS — OF COMPLAINTS AGAINST AUTO SPEEDERS. In a single day from fifty to seventy-five were turned in. NOT ONE COMPLAINT AGAINST THESE OFFENDERS HAS BEEN ISSUED OR ONE ARREST MADE.

Every day, every night, the speed ordinance is broken by numbers of reckless drivers. The one wonder is that deaths have not resulted almost daily. In no city, anywhere, is there such utter disregard of law and human safety. And these criminal performances are encouraged by such police negligence as renders the department accessory to its inevitable results.

For two years the TRIBUNE has pounded our otherwise efficient police authorities upon this subject, demanding the enforcement of the law. Barring little spurts of activity, under pressure of aroused public opinion, nothing has been done to check the wild rampage of these night-riders defiant of the public safety.

The defense, or excuse, of the police was that with but one police car they could not apprehend the auto raiders against the peace and security of the community. In answer to this motorcycle was provided, but while its use has resulted in a literal flood of official evidence to supplement the daily complaints of citizens, THE ARREST OF ONE MOTORCYCLE SPEEDER IS THE SUM TOTAL OF THE PROTECTION THAT HAS BEEN GIVEN OUR IMPERILED CITIZENS.

Of the two recent cases in which death or probable death is involved, the victim of the former is claimed to have been at fault. BUT THE CRIMINAL FLIGHT AND ATTEMPTED ESCAPE OF THE AUTO DRIVER IS A CONCESSION OF GUILT THAT ONLY THE STRONGEST EVIDENCE CAN OVERCOME, AND ITS COWARDICE ADDS TO ITS VICIOUSNESS. In the KILLING OF LAST NIGHT THERE IS NO CLAIM OF THE VICTIM'S NEGLIGENCE, LIKE COMMON MURDERERS, THE SLAYERS PUT OUT THEIR LIGHTS AND FLED IN THE DARKNESS, FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE.

TODAY A HALT IS CALLED. THE PEOPLE OF LA CROSSE WILL TOLERATE NO MORE WANTON TRIFLING WITH LIFE. THEY DEMAND THE PENALTIES UPON EVERY AUTO MARAUDER AGAINST WHOM EVIDENCE EXISTS. THEY DEMAND DRASTIC VERDICTS. THEY DEMAND A POLICE CAMPAIGN SO SWEEPING AS TO STOP, NOW AND FOREVER, THIS CRIMINAL DEBAUCH OF THE RIGHTS AND LIVES OF OUR PEOPLE.

FAILURE OF THE POLICE TO PROCEED IMMEDIATELY AND EFFICIENTLY TO THE DISCHARGE OF THEIR SWORN DUTY WILL PLACE UPON THE SHOULDERS OF THE FIRE AND POLICE COMMISSION AN UNPLEASANT BUT IMPERATIVE ALTERNATIVE.

AGED WOMAN IS KILLED BY AUTO NEAR HER HOME

Mrs. Catherine Dahl, seventy-four-year old woman who died shortly after being struck by an automobile in front of her home last night.

Police were this afternoon on the trail of a La Crosse man who they are endeavoring to connect with Mrs. Dahl's death last night. They say the man drove a car which corresponds with the description given them by eyewitnesses, and that he has not been seen since shortly before the aged woman was struck. No arrests had been made late this afternoon.

Jurymen who will sit in the inquest viewed the body at the undertaking establishment of Tetley, Sletten and Dahl this afternoon. They are Sebastian Auger, August Lautz, O. C. Low, B. H. Volz, George Schweizer and Louis Omerberg.

The inquest was continued un-

JAPS REPORTED ON WAY TO JOIN DE FACTOS

LAREDO, Texas, June 28.—American refugees from Monterey brought here today a rumor that Japanese officers are at the head of troops of Mexicans enroute from Monterey to Chihuahua to reinforce the Carranza garrison there.

The rumor, unconfirmed from any other source, also said Japanese experts are directing work of manufacturing munitions at the Monterey arsenal, which has been taken over by the Mexican government.

Mrs. Catherine Dahl, 921 South Eighth street, 74 years of age, was struck by an automobile while crossing Eighth street in front of her home at 8:50 last night.

Her skull was fractured and her face badly lacerated. She died about

Number "7" is Clue
Several boys who were playing about the scene of the accident today told Chief of Police Webber that the first number of the escaping automobile's license tag was "seven." The boys said they caught the figure a second before the license tag light was extinguished. The information gave the police a new clue with which to work, and every car in the city whose license begins with the number is being searched for and examined.

three minutes later, without gaining consciousness.

Coroner William L. Tetley this morning announced that an inquest will be held.

The automobile, said by several eye witnesses to have contained two men, did not stop. Witnesses said the machine was traveling fifteen miles an hour. They saw the tail light, illuminating the license tag, suddenly go out, and the car speed ahead quickly. The machine is said to have

FIRING SQUAD WOULD FOLLOW ATTEMPT TO TAKE PRISONERS

EL PASO, Tex., June 28.—Execution by a firing squad will be the end of the twenty-five American prisoners in Chihuahua City, General Trevino is reported to have stated, if the United States' armed forces attempt to rescue the men.

MEXICANS MOVE IN WARLIKE WAY ALONG BORDER

COLUMBUS, O., June 28.—Three train sections of New Jersey state militia enroute to the border, passed through Columbus between midnight and 7:30 a. m., today. Another train section of the New Jersey troops and three train sections of the New York National Guard troops will go through here later in the day.

Oregon Battery Enroute
CLACKAMAS, Ore., June 28.—A battery of field artillery, the second contingent of Oregon militia to leave for the Mexican border, entrained at 9 a. m., today for Calexico.

New York militia is expected to arrive in Brownsville tomorrow or Friday. They will be distributed along the border in that district.

GENERAL BARRY DIRECTS MOVEMENT AS SOON AS TROOPS CAN MUSTER IN

CHICAGO, June 28.—Orders were issued by the central department of the United States army today for the troops of Illinois, Kansas, Wisconsin and Missouri to entrain for the border as soon as each unit is mustered in and examined.

The troops were ordered to entrain for the following destinations:

Illinois, First cavalry—Brownsville, Texas.
All other Illinois troops to San Antonio.
Kansas troops to Eagle Pass, Texas.
Wisconsin troops to San Antonio.
Missouri troops to Laredo, Texas.
Other troops in the central department were ordered to depart for points yet to be named as soon as "reasonably ready."

The Illinois, Missouri, Wisconsin and Kansas troops will not be delayed in departure for lack of equipment. This will be furnished at the border.

Several regiments in each of these states are ready to move today, being mustered in and examined.

The First Illinois infantry will entrain at 2 p. m., the Second Illinois infantry tonight, it was stated. These troops probably will reach the border before any Eastern militia.

In addition to the general order to the four states, three of them, Illinois, Missouri and Kansas, were given authority to move for the border at their own officers' direction without reporting back to the central department their readiness.

The First Illinois will go via the Chicago & Alton to Higby, Mo., and via the Missouri, Kansas & Texas to San Antonio; the Second via the Alton to St. Louis and via the St. Louis & San Francisco to San Antonio.

WISCONSIN BRIGADE DROPS EVERYTHING TO MUSTER IN BUT NEEDS THREE MORE DAYS

MADISON, Wis., June 28.—General Barry's orders to take the Wisconsin militia to the border as soon as examined and mustered in had not arrived at Governor Philipp's office at 3:00 o'clock this afternoon.

(BY MARK R. BYERS)

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 28.—News that General Barry of the central department has ordered the Wisconsin troops to proceed south "as soon as each unit is examined and mustered in", brought from Major Salzman the opinion that these conditions can not be met before the end of the week. No official places the time still necessary to "examine and muster in" the Wisconsin brigade at less than two days after today. Thus far only the troop, the battery and the field hospital are mustered in, and the examination is a thorough-going and time-taking process. Orders received from the war department this morning were to make the examination rigid and complete. The muster rolls have not been completed, although the men in various companies have been working almost night and day. The men will be mustered in by battalions. Only one battalion of the First regiment will be mustered into federal service by tonight, according to Captain L. T. Richardson, in charge of the work.

Anticipating the orders, however, all other activities in Camp Douglas gave way this morning to speeding up preparations for the conversion of the Wisconsin militiamen into regulars. The target practice which occupied Monday and Tuesday was not resumed and the men were held close to quarters awaiting the arrival of the federal officer, Capt. L. T. Richardson, who has been designated as brigadier general, and his assistants. It is believed that the troops will move immediately following the muster in. It is said that only the fact that the troops have not been converted into regulars caused General Barry, commander of the army central department, to delay for twenty-four hours his acquiescence to General Funston's request for the Badger troops on the border. Troop A of Milwaukee was mustered in yesterday, not a man refusing to take the oath of allegiance. The field hospital was sworn in Monday evening. Battery A of Milwaukee was given the oath this morning.

News of General Barry's order to move the Wisconsin troops arrived here in the form of telephone messages from the Milwaukee Sentinel and the La Crosse Tribune, but at 3 o'clock they had not been officially received by Major Salzman. General Orlando Holway is in Milwaukee today.

Now Taking the Oath

Captain R. H. Wescott, U. S. A., was in the Third regiment camp this morning drawing up the muster roll and preparing for the administration of the oath, which was expected to take place this afternoon.

In hurried preparation for handling the troops Joseph Prentice, Omaha railroad superintendent, appeared at the camp yesterday as representative of the United States Railway association, to arrange for and superintend the construction of new loading tracks on the reservation.

Go Over Omaha Line

Quartermaster Major Charles R. Williams received from central department headquarters this morning tentative routings for the troops to El Paso or San Antonio. The train will leave over the Omaha and Northwestern roads for Chicago and St. Louis, thence via the Santa Fe to Texas.

Company commanders from the Third this morning checked over all equipment preparatory to turning it in this afternoon and receiving the latest type of pack. Overcoats are being packed up and turned in, orders being not to take them to the border.

Many Soldiers are Ill

Typoid inoculation proved a severe trial, particularly to Company B. At retreat last night Privates William Hetke and Frank Bendell of La Crosse keeled over while standing at attention. Almost 150 men answered sick call after breakfast, most of their complaints being due to the results of the inoculation. By noon, the effects had pretty well worn off. The men were much cheered by the information that the second and third injections of the serum would produce much slighter reaction.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS STRENGTHEN DEFENSES

NACO, Ariz., June 28.—American troops today were strengthening trenches dug six months ago within 100 yards of the international lines, following reports "from friendly Mexicans" that 3,000 Carranzistas and Mayo Indians will attempt to dynamite the El Sabee water lines, following any outbreak of hostilities.

Total 629

Total membership today, 629.

When it was announced that 196 additional memberships had been secured today in the Chamber of Commerce campaign, the members of the "Forward La Crosse" committees, over 100 in number, fairly took the roof off the main dining room of the Stoddard hotel. The enthusiasm became so rampant that guests were attracted to the doors of the dining room and people came into the lobby of the hotel to see what the cheering was about.

Today's work gives the new Chamber of Commerce 629 memberships and the active campaign has still two days to run.

MR. HIXON ELATED

"This is great," declared Chairman Frank Hixon when the grand total was announced, "but we are only half through, and the campaign is not over until every individual and firm has had an invitation to join. We are making history here in La Crosse. The committee workers are to be congratulated, as are the citizens of La Crosse who are showing their faith in the city and in the Chamber of Commerce by enrolling in the new organization."

BREAKS NATIONAL RECORD

"From present indications the new Chamber of Commerce will break all national records for a city of less than 35,000 people," said D. H. McFarland, a commercial organization authority, at the conclusion of the luncheon today. "I know of no city in the country of this size with 800 memberships, and there is a good chance that this number will be reached by Friday noon."

BURTON HEADS LIST

The feature of the meeting today was the report of George W. Burton of Special Committee No. 2. When he reported that his committee had 52 memberships the applause continued for fully five minutes.

Every one of the twenty-five committees was on the job today, and all had three or more men.

Commercial organization men of La Crosse who have been in all movements of a civic or commercial nature for twenty-five to fifty years, declare that they have never seen a community so united or so enthusiastic on one proposition. This campaign has been conducted without effort to arouse enthusiasm. Rather the appeal has been to the business judgment, but in spite of the fact that no efforts were made to arouse enthusiasm, it is here to a remarkable extent.

HUNDREDS STILL TO SEE

There are hundreds of individuals and firms that have not yet been called on. Out of something like 500 calls made by the committees during the first two days of the campaign, there have not been more than 25 refusals, and it is predicted that many of these will join tomorrow or Friday.

Committees will meet again tomorrow morning at the Elks' club. Chairman Frank Hixon requests that every worker be on hand promptly at 9:30 o'clock.

"SEALED LIPS" IS REMARKABLE FILM

The Equitable's next big five-part feature, "Sealed Lips," which is coming to the Casino theater on Wednesday and Thursday, is the result of a remarkable combination of skill and genius. Maxwell Grey, the writer of the great novel, "The Silence of Dean Maitland," William Court-enay, the star of the film version, Arthur Ashley and Mary Charleson, the principals in the cast, the wonderful facilities of the Equitable's great Flushing studio, the beautiful country estates on Long Island where some of the outside scenes were located, all combined under the directorship of John Ince, and handled with consummate skill, have produced a screen drama which carries the story to the mind with a force commanding attention. A big Episcopal church in Brooklyn was used for the dramatic climax, with the regular officers and choir of the church in attendance and lending their efforts toward insuring absolute accuracy in every detail of the great scene.

RUMANIA AGAIN DISCUSSED AS AN ALLIED ALLY

Bucharest Dispatch Says Bulgaria Closes Frontier Against Rumania and That the Bulgars Mass

WEST DRAWS INTEREST

Berlin Believes British Cannonading Preliminary to Great Onslaught of Infantry

BY ED L. KEEN

LONDON, June 28.—Interest in the expected grand offensive of the allies shifted temporarily today to the situation in the Balkans, with the revival of reports that Rumania is preparing to join the allies.

A heavily censored Bucharest dispatch telegraphed via Athens reported that Bulgaria had closed her frontier against Rumania. Bulgarian troops were reported to be concentrating along the Rumanian frontier.

The Evening News received a Bucharest dispatch reporting that the Rumanian cabinet at a special session took certain steps as a result of Bulgaria's movements. Rumanian military chiefs participated in the cabinet conference.

Vienna reports received at Amsterdam said the Bulgars are uneasy because Greece yielded to the demands of the allies.

Berlin dispatches today were silent on the latest Balkan developments, but laid heavy emphasis on the continued bombardment of German lines opposite the British front. The cannonade, Berlin believes, is a systematic attempt to wreck German defensive works in preparation for a great infantry onslaught.

Correspondents in Switzerland reported today that successes of Russian and Italian offensives are causing the greatest consternation in Vienna. The Austrians are clamoring for the abandonment of the Verdun offensive by the Germans and the sending of more troops to the Austrian front.

Further Italian Successes
ROME, June 28.—Italian troops have captured Austrian positions between Posina and the Astico valley in the continuation of their Trentino offensive, it was officially announced today. The capture of Monte Giamonde and Cairojo was announced.

Pressing forward on Asiago plateau, the Italians have reached the slopes of Monte Rastaiterrotto and Monte Moaglagh and in the extreme north have begun to approach Galamara valley.

For the first time in many days the war office reported active artillery fighting on the Isonzo front, announcing the capture of 353 prisoners and two machine guns.

Little Change at Verdun
PARIS, June 28.—Violent fighting occurred last night on the east bank of the Meuse northwest of Verdun, but the situation was unchanged, the war office announced today.

The Germans made a vigorous counter attack northwest of Hill 321, attempting to retake positions captured by the French. The French repulsed them here. The heaviest fighting went on around the Thiamont works.

West of the Meuse artillery duels occurred last night in the regions of Avocourt and Chattancourt. There was grenade fighting around Hill 304 and on Dead Man's hill.

South of Lassigny the Germans made several night attempts against small posts but were everywhere repulsed.

ANTI TOXIN IS A GREAT HELP AGAINST SPREAD OF TETANUS

MADISON, Wis., June 28.—With the day of the firecracker, pistol and pinwheel near, tetanus dangers threaten lives of Wisconsin boys and many of their elders. Tetanus is generally a wound complication, but the seat of the wound is of much less consequence than its character. Fatal tetanus may develop from trivial wounds. Punctured and lacerated wounds are much more susceptible to tetanus than cleaned or superficial wounds, and where there is special danger of tetanus should be freely opened and all particles of foreign matter carefully removed.

Wounds containing garden earth, street dust, or other material liable to contain tetanus spores should receive special consideration. After laying open and thoroughly cleansing such wounds, it may be advisable to disinfect them with the actual cautery or strong chemical agents. Carbolic acid (from 25 per cent to pure) or a strong solution of formalin may be used.

Wounds produced by blank cartridges and other Fourth of July accidents should be given prompt and careful local treatment, supplemented with a prophylactic injection of anti-toxin.

Tetanus antitoxin is a trustworthy preventative. It must be administered before the advent of symptoms. Time is important. A few units introduced early are worth more than thousands later. Instances in which 1,500 units of tetanus anti-toxin, taken in time, have failed to prevent the development of tetanus in this country are rare.

Cleanliness is a highly important factor.

"BUGLE CALL" FILLED TRIANGLE'S HOSPITAL

The photographing of "The Bugle Call," drama of the plains in which "Buster" Collier is starred, was finished with some terrific scenes of battle.

The making of the picture had been a boy's dream of delight for the youthful star. But the battle scenes were almost too realistic for him. He had no part in them, but he was on hand every minute and by the time he had seen half a dozen riders carried off to the hospital, he began to realize that making photo-dramas is not all make-believe.

"It's all right except for the poor fellows that have to make falls from their horses," he said. "That's pretty tough, even when you've practiced it and know just how."

As he spoke Director Reginald Barker shouted a signal and a band of Indians charged the stockade, amidst a frightful din. A mounted man close to the camera threw his horse, the pony's legs went into the air and he rolled completely over his rider.

The battle went on, the cameras never paused and the man lay still. The scene was quickly through. The man sat up grinning and to anxious inquiries replied, "Never touched me."

The boy star gave a sigh of relief. "Only good luck save him—and a light pony," he said with unconscious authority. "Gee! I'll be glad when this part of it is over."

Then he added with equal fervor: "But that will make a bully fall for the picture."

The falls taken by at least a score of the riders who appear in the battle scenes are said to be among the most remarkable ever shown on the screen.

"The Bugle Call" will be at the Majestic Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

A HOME HAIR-CUTTER

The man who hates to go to the barber shop will hail the invention of a safety hair-cutter which will enable him to cut his hair in his own home. This hair-cutter is upon the same plan as the safety razor excepting that a comb takes the place of the steel guard. It is possible for the user to cut his hair almost as close with this new instrument as with a razor, if he cares to. It removes the hair readily from behind the ears and the back of the neck, a feature of tonsorial work that even some barbers find difficult.Significant
"Do you know, George," remarked
Mrs. Ray, "I should say the Browns' marriage was an ideal one. I couldn't help but notice it tonight. Really, there wasn't one word of disagreement. I believe they both think absolutely alike.""They are a charming couple, my dear, perfectly charming," said her husband, "but as to their thinking alike, Madge, did you notice that she always thought first?"Women dislike a womanly man as much as men dislike a manly woman.NEW DANGERS ARE UNFOLDING

The situation in Mexico is now that which from the beginning must have seemed inevitable to the thoughtful observer. If one goes into the tall grass one may expect the snake bite. Arming greasers and gringos, mutually devoted in their hatred, and rubbing their noses together is a pretty certain way to start a melee. Going into a man's house to spank his erring son is another guaranteed method of creating a breach of the peace.

This government has been patient—whether too patient will never be known because the outcome of an earlier aggression can not be determined. Now it seems that we are going in. We may hope and pray to be preserved from the strife, but we may as well face the stern fact that all the probabilities are on the side of war. Hasty predictions concerning the immediate movement of the militia and "on high authority" stories concerning it, have been somewhat misleading, but while logic suggests that the orders will await a reasonable state of preparedness, only a decided change toward pacification can prevent their departure in the near future.

Nor is war with Mexico the gravest calamity we may be called upon to face. There is talk of Japanese and even of German alliance against us, but the former seems improbable and the latter absurd. However, Central and South America palpably are suspicious of the United States and warmly in racial sympathy with the Mexicans, and it is quite within the possibilities that in the event of a Mexican war we may soon find ourselves involved with part or all of Latin America. War under these conditions involves a tremendous commercial loss, and the immeasurably greater loss that western civilization will be penalized as is being that of Europe.

SMALLER UNITS PROFIT:
NORTH SIDE INTERESTED

That splendid first day's work for the Chamber of Commerce, breaking as it does the national record for cities under 40,000, is a triumph for La Crosse in which every citizen must enjoy a conscious pride, but analysis of the returns shows that it breaks another record in the percentage of intelligence shown by the great, active body of smaller but growing business men.

It stands to reason that it is the general run of our small, diversified business institutions who proportionately will enjoy the larger advantages from the work of the Chamber of Commerce. When a group of business organizations, small and large, pool their interests, the smaller operatives participate in the results of the greater prestige, resource and influence of the larger units. Scores, hundreds of our more modest industrial and mercantile establishments have seen the point and others rapidly are getting the true vision of what it means to them to federate with older and greater business entities those joint interests in which all can make common cause. With broad view and quick grasp the business-makers of La Crosse have visualized and seized the opportunity which to men of smaller calibre and less broad philosophy might have been lost.

North La Crosse business men no doubt realize that to them more than to the men of any other section is the Chamber of Commerce an instrument of tremendous importance. Illogically but unfailingly, mental attitudes are influenced by physical environment, and that seemingly innocuous strip of marsh that segregates the North side has served as a bar to prevent the enterprising interests of that section from fully occupying their just position and exercising their logical participation in those broader activities that affect the community as a whole. In the Chamber of Commerce they will find a city-wide business clearing house, a sort of civic union depot through which they may exert their proper influence and enjoy their proportionate advantage from community activities that bear alike upon all quarters of La Crosse, without relinquishing the advantages they already enjoy.

Nor is this more general phase of community enterprise the only advantage North siders will derive from the Chamber of Commerce. They have interests and problems that center in their section only, and inevitable logic has compelled them to band themselves in civic organizations devoted exclusively to these interests and problems. It has followed that so far as their local interests are concerned they have been left to play a lone hand, although often their labors have borne fruit of which we all have eaten, and in many cases South side co-operation would have been not only a just contribution, but of immeasurable value to their efforts.

The Chamber of Commerce is so constituted as to meet this situation fully and adequately. In all its essentials they retain their present organization, continuing its devotion to affairs peculiar to that portion of the city above the causeway, yet through association with the central body they henceforth can exercise their intelligence and voice in relation to all-city matters that overlap all sections alike, lending a hand here and receiving a lift there as a now logically co-ordinated community moves in efficient unity to the consummation of its common destiny.

How we would like to wipe out those disrupting terms, "North side" and "South side"! We'd like to throw the "North side" heading in the TRIBUNE into the "hell box", never to be typed again. One-third of La Crosse lies north of the pike; some of our greatest industries are located there; thousands of our best citizens reside there. They are all as much a part of La Crosse as is the city hall, as much interested in its problems, as much entitled to its every advantage as the people of other precincts. Think of a concrete, united, efficient La Crosse, with one purpose, one destiny and one name! Truly "it is a consummation devoutly to be wished", and in the Chamber of Commerce we have the first comprehensive, articulated grouping under one head of the influential civic units the welding of which makes possible the elimination of all business and sectional barriers, the equitable distribution of obligations, opportunities and advantages, the achievement of the one, only and unified LA CROSSE.

SEEKING SERVICE, NOT "CREDIT"

Mr. Goetzmann's letter of renunciation is in keeping with the character and spirit of the men who worked out the preliminaries of the Chamber of Commerce program. Each of them wanted to help to the limit of his ability; none of them seeks "credit", but rather seeks to defer to others in point of honor, and none with less self-effacement than President Hebbard. Their names constitute a roll of honor in which exists no rank or distinction, for they will have it so. Perhaps we can "rotate them", as the names on a primary ballot. At least we shall remember them, as with keen appreciation we write them here:

E. D. Dittman, A. L. Goetzmann, W. F. Hurtgen, W. F. Goodrich, J. C. Burns, V. Tausche, W. F. Strauss, A. H. Schubert, W. D. MacWillie; President E. S. Hebbard, ex-officio.

San Francisco to Boston

Prof. Zueblin in Chicago once told the following story, to illustrate how Boston people are looked on in the west. In San Francisco a gentleman gave a boy a nickel for a shine.

"I beg your pardon, sir," said the bootblack, handing back the coin; "the price is ten cents."

"What!" exclaimed the gentleman. "We pay only five cents in Boston."

"Oh, he you from Boston?" came the quick reply. "Then consider yourself my guest."

The Eternal Feminine

He was one of those clever people who are always trying to take off some one, and his latest selected victim was a woman bus conductor. It was in London.

"Dardan-elles, please," he said with a grin, tendering a penny as she came for the fares.

Nothing happened until the vehicle passed a recruiting office. Then the fair conductor tugged at the bell rope and announced loudly:

"Change here for the Dardanelles."

Little Edna is always frightened at the appearance of Indians upon the screen at the picture shows.

"Mamma," she whispered to her mother the other night at the theater, "are there going to be any Indians in this show?"

"No dear," answered her mother. "But mamma," persisted little Edna, "have the Indians been out yet?"

"Why, no," Edna; I told you there were no Indians in this play."

"But mamma, who scalped all those men down in the front seats?"

For First Grade Teachers

Little Robert was very bright and at the end of his first term at school was promoted to the second grade.

He was much attached to his first-grade teacher, and was loath to leave her. "Miss Eva," he said, "I do wish you knew enough to teach second grade, so I wouldn't have to leave you."

Newport is a combination of the day after tomorrow and the day before yesterday. As a summer resort it is known all over the world for the stronghold of the ultra-fashionable and the ultra-modern. As a year-around Rhode Island town it is full of quaint and attractive nooks and corners whose associations run back to revolutionary days, and earlier.

Long Wharf, where you land at Newport, has a tale to tell unequalled perhaps by any landing pier in either America. Here visitors from Europe landed in Colonial days, come to test the charms of a social center whose fame reached across the Atlantic even then. Here the coasting vessels brought planters a-summering from Richmond and Savannah, when Georgia and Virginia were still British territory. Here Washington and Rochambeau walked in state between ranks of saluting soldiery, when France and the American colonies were allies.

Today the old wharf sees the comings and goings of all the famous yachts whose names are as well known as those of their millionaire owners. The winding streets that rise from the water front still have many an old gabled colonial mansion to show, but ten minutes' ride away you may see the state "cottages" that New Yorkers build to spend six weeks a year in. Newport's peculiar charm consists in just that mingling of the old and the new, the quaint and the modern. The big limousines that roll along the drive seem to be accompanied by ghostly carriages that carried the belles and beaux of two centuries ago.

In spite of the presence of the richest man or the latest social dictator or the bluest-blooded Boston bull terrier, any or all of whom are likely to be in Newport when you visit it, the most interesting thing in town is always the Old Stone Mill. That little cylinder of rude masonry with its ring of high arched doorways has the charm and the lure of age and mystery. Its origin is lost in the past with the names of its builders. By some its erection is ascribed to Governor Benedict Arnold, ancestor of a gentleman of the same name who was famous for other things than windmills. The most popular theory makes its architects the Norsemen who visited New England hundreds of years before Columbus. As for the mill, it looks old enough to have been built by Noah himself.

"So they're mine. Isle Bonne—and all the prairie. Just like they were, always."

"Yes." He was pushing back from the table, and now looked at me with his shy serene smile. "And I reckon I feel better now. Cleaned out, but I feel better. I'll be on my feet and fightin' in a month, Doctor Dick!"

"Yes, but—" she had taken a step between him and me, still holding the documents. "All you've done—the canals, and the pumping station—everything?"

"I'm sorry," he muttered. "I can't put yo' woods and prairie back like it was. But in a year—two years—the Isle Bonne jungles will grow o'er the plant, and the lilies—you won't find a ditch fo' yo' lilies, Laure."

"It wasn't always so," Laure answered slowly. "Do you know that once they kept the sea out, and it was all sugar cane and rice from the woods to Bayou L'Ourse? And groves and orange trees—Papa Prosper can almost remember—there were little children playing there!"

He was looking out to her blue-green woods, and the old somber sense of failure came on him: "I know. That's what I used to think—I'd fight the sea back, too. You swamp land—such black rich land—I was goin' to beat you—and then sometime show you—what I dreamed of in the beginnin'—the little farms and orange rows and homes they'd be—yes, seh! And children, too—I could 'a' made that fo' 'em—hundreds of 'em—thousands of 'em—long after I'd been dead. That was what I dreamed of, it wasn't money—any fool can make money. But the game—that was it. To make the earth richer, and some homes happier—after you'd gone and you game with you—that's the man's size job I dreamed of!"

She had listened to his exaltation curiously. "Was that it, m'sieu?" It is beautiful, Monsieur le Baron—why even my old knight, he could not talk like that!"

"It wasn't his game—it was my kind of game." He looked down at her patiently. "And you little thing—I used to pity you—you wouldn't listen to al. Sho—it made me laugh—it hurt me so!"

He was laughing strangely as he came aft to the engine-room. I went ahead to make way for him and was out on the stern deck under the awnings when I heard her cry to him.

"Wait! You mustn't—if it hurts you so!"

He had turned in the passageway, his brown crushed hat shading his face from me. "I can't talk to you, now—after you beat me."

"Why don't you say you want me to help you?"

"All the time, I reckoned I'd tell you mo'—when I'd won. Now, you'd think—because I was beat—I come to you and beg fo' compromise—to fix it up, somehow. Well, I can't—from you."

He was turning from her, his voice at the nearest break I had ever known in the man, when she came and was at his side.

"Here—here—" I heard her whisper: "I'd rather you would burn them—than to hurt you so!"

To have you feel that way—to beg of me—of me—when all the time—all the time, I waited—wondered—I could not understand her clear voice further for its blurring curiously. "To beg of me—" she went on. "Me! When all the time I wasn't trying to hate you." Then her voice was lost altogether, and I thought it was muffled against his gray shirt; for after a moment, I heard him whisper: "You mean that you little—? Why, all the time you was tryin' not to love me—and couldn't make it go?"

IF BACKACHY OR
KIDNEYS BOTHEREat less meat, also take glass of Salts before eating breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from back-ache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach ache, sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a table-spoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine: This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

"Official Mother" is the title on a large and imposing badge bearing the arms of the city of Los Angeles. It is an official badge and is worn by several women officers of the suit.

But only one woman member of the city's film colony bears the honor. That is Lucile Brown, of the Fine Arts studio, one of whose duties is to mother two or three hundred girl players of the Triangle colony. She is to be their chaperon when chaperonage is required, to advise and counsel and discipline.

"It is a busy but an easy task," says Miss Brown, "because all our girls are so wholesome, sensible and ambitious. That, you see, is the sort that comes to us."

the king of Spain fall to the cabin floor—from about the height of the Texan's shoulder. Then, as I reached the planks of Papa Prosper's wharf, purposely making a noise so that they would know I was hastening away, I heard Laure speaking so softly that I did not know whether it was a whisper, laughter or a sob.

"Monsieur le Baron! We will have to go tell him that Isle Bonne has found another knight besides John-the-Fool! A real knight for the little homes and gardens—and all the children playing!"

"A fool fo' luck," he murmured—"that's me, little Marquise!"

I went on up the galerie stairs and heard Papa Prosper within putting about his charcoal pot. Then a siren whistle afar on the lakes, Virgil's second supply steamer coming to the main canal. Then steps behind me, and I discovered that the two from the white boat were following.

"Well," I said: "since you are here, you may as well tell them."

Laure looked at her fat knight who was sound asleep in the shadow, his green cap with the rooster feather fallen quite off his pink-gar head. She was going to him when she found Mary in the hammock and Clell on a low seat by her, holding her hand in much the fashion they did before me in the old days.

"Ah, I always thought, m'sieu, that somewhere nawth—there was a lady!"

"And she had to come down to your wilderness, my dear," Mary murmured, "just to escape from her own—that she made for herself! She knows now!"

Laure had reached the baron. She softly dropped the grants from the king of Spain down upon his hairy bosom, and even in his sleep the knight's fat old hand closed upon them. Clell had arisen to stare at them and at her—and then at Virgil. There was no mistaking any thing, even without the Texan's words and the joy in his eyes.

"You win—Virgil?" Clell muttered: "Well, here, old chap! I made good, didn't I? And the big thing is that Mary knows!"

I turned from the boss and his lieutenant gripping each other's hard brown hands. Laure was laughing with her fingers upon the sleeves of both.

"Messieurs! When Monsieur le Baron awakes, I shall tell him I have got the last one—they have all come to our side—to assist John-the-Fool!"

The fat knight, catching a phrase, murmured in his sleep again. I listened:

"Ah, Marquise—you should have seen the one I was—when I was twenty!"

Five hundred was played during the afternoon and honors were awarded as follows: First, Mrs. Warner and Mrs. Thill; second, Mrs. Arenz and Mrs. Schneeberger; third, Mrs. Newburg, and fourth, Mrs. Albrecht. MESDAMES ROSS AND GANTERT GIVE HANDSOME RECEPTION

Mrs. Charles J. Ross and Mrs. J. George Gantert entertained at a handsome reception yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ross, 515 Cass street. Receiving with the hostesses was Mrs. Stephen Gantert, and about one hundred and fifty guests were received between the hours of three and six.

The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. Max Platz, Mrs. Albert Gantert and Miss Helen Dorset, who were in general charge of the rooms, which were handsomely decorated for the event. The dining room presided over by Mrs. R. Humboldt, was in pink, the table being centered with an exquisite cloth of Cluny on which was placed a vase of pink roses of rare loveliness. A soft pink glow was shed over the room through pink rose garlands which were draped from the ceiling. The effect was a pretty one. Mrs. Albert Gantert served the salad and Mrs. Max Platz was stationed at the coffee urn. Assisting in the dining room were the Misses Ann Hackner, Hazel Bentley and Zita McPherson of Minneapolis.

Mrs. Ida Kaeppler and Mrs. George Herkens were in charge of the ice cream room, which was also done in pink. Here were seen beautiful pink peonies and carnations. The lights were draped with pink rosebud garlands.

In the reception room the general effect was in green, with a graceful basket of pink roses lending a touch of color to the scene, and palms and syringas were used to good effect. Here also were seen the rosebud garlands dependent from the lights, although in this room they were of a pale green.

The punch was served upon the screened porch which had been converted into a cool green retreat with ferns and hangings of green. Baskets and vases of brown-eyed Susans, roses and syringas added to the attractiveness of the effect. The Misses Florence Beschmann and Marie Gerard presided at the punch bowl. In the hallway were seen white daisies.

The guests were admitted by Masters Maximilian and Orlando Ross.

Uncle Sam Tells How Unclean the Fly Is

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The ordinary house fly carries about with him, recent government experiments show, an amount of uncleanness equal to 2 to 3 per cent of his weight.

If the average man were so unclean as that, he would have on his body about four pounds of filth.

A cow or horse as dirty as a fly would carry twenty to twenty-five pounds. The fly does not weigh much, but it can harbor millions of disease-giving germs. As a matter of fact, the dirt on a fly is about one-half bacteria—bacteria of many kinds, large and small, thick and thin, long and short.

If cut of its abundance of bacteria the fly deposits a typhoid germ in a can of milk, there is every likelihood that in a short time there will be enough typhoid germs in that milk to make it a dangerous, frequently a fatal, poison.

In the experiments in this subject conducted by the department of agriculture, a number of flies were caught and washed in sterile, distilled water. Uncleanness to the amount of from two to three per cent of the flies' weight settled at the bottom of the tubes, and of this about half was bacteria.

In addition there remained in solution in the water enough dirt to discolor it.

The fly can and does carry the germs of tuberculosis.

Flies which have been allowed access to animals suffering from this disease were caught and washed in sterile water.

Inoculation tests from them subsequently proved that they bore living, virulent tubercle bacilli.

Opera Singer Weds

New York Man

NEW YORK, June 28.—Miss Kathleen Howard, who is to sing at the Metropolitan Opera house next season, will be married tomorrow to Edward Kellogg Baird of this city. The ceremony will take place at St. Thomas' church. Miss Howard is a contralto, and sang at the Royal Opera house at Darmstadt several seasons, after several years of study in Paris and Germany. Upon returning to this country she sang with the Century Opera company, of which Mr. Baird was president. She has attracted wide attention not only as one of the coming stars of the American operatic stage but also for her adoption of Chinese dress, which she finds more rational and more economical as well as much more artistic than the usual garb of women.

New York Woman Dies at Age of 105

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 28.—Mrs. Mary Monroe, 105 years and 8 months of age, died here early today. Up until the last few days she had always been active and in good health. On her last birthday she led a dance with her 85-year-old son, S. E. Monroe, as her partner.

A Real Daughter Of the Revolution

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 28.—Mrs. Mary Jane Skidmore of this city, who, according to all information available, is one of three living daughters of the American Revolution, will celebrate her 87th birthday tomorrow. The event will be patriot exercises decreed by the national chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and in charge of the local chapter. Mrs. Skidmore's father, Jonas Frazee, served three years under Washington, heard the Liberty Bell ring at Philadelphia and was presented a Bible by Mrs. William Henry Harrison while the latter's husband was president of the United States.

Mayor Declines To Aid Cupid

CLEVELAND, June 28.—There won't be any marriages at the city hall so long as Harry Davis is mayor. He just won't help Mr. Cupid, that's all. Davis explained he has religious scruples against a mayor marrying couples.

"A minister ought to perform all marriages; it's more satisfactory to everybody, especially the bride," said Davis. "There hasn't been or won't be any marriages at the city hall so long as I'm mayor. I want to have an untroubled conscience when I leave office."

In previous administrations marriages by the mayor were events in the dull routine of city hall life.

BORDER FIRED BY UNREST REPORTS

EL PASO, Texas, June 28.—Reports from Washington that congressional leaders regarded war as almost a certainty has fired the border. Home guards have been formed in a score of towns to protect themselves against local Mexicans when the border patrols join Pershing in the drive against the Carranza armies.

The border communities are patriotically preparing receptions for the militia expected to be quartered with them in the coming week.

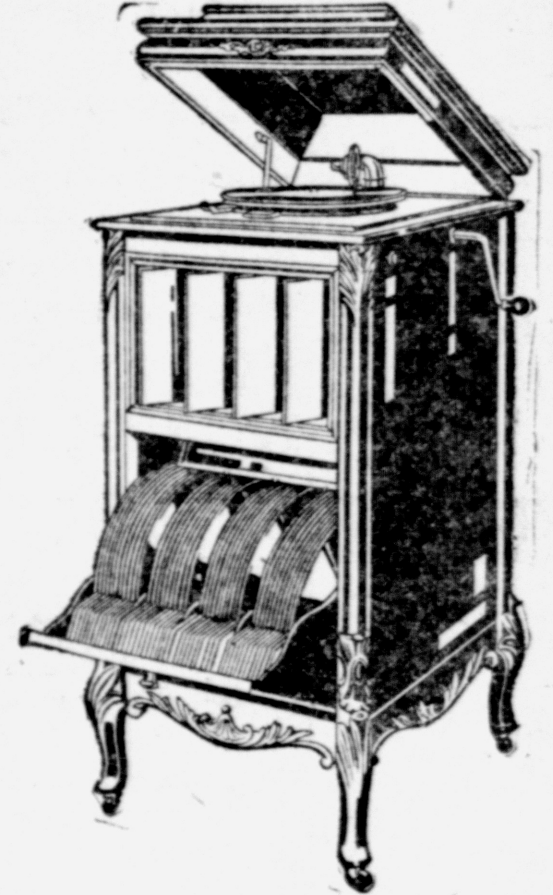

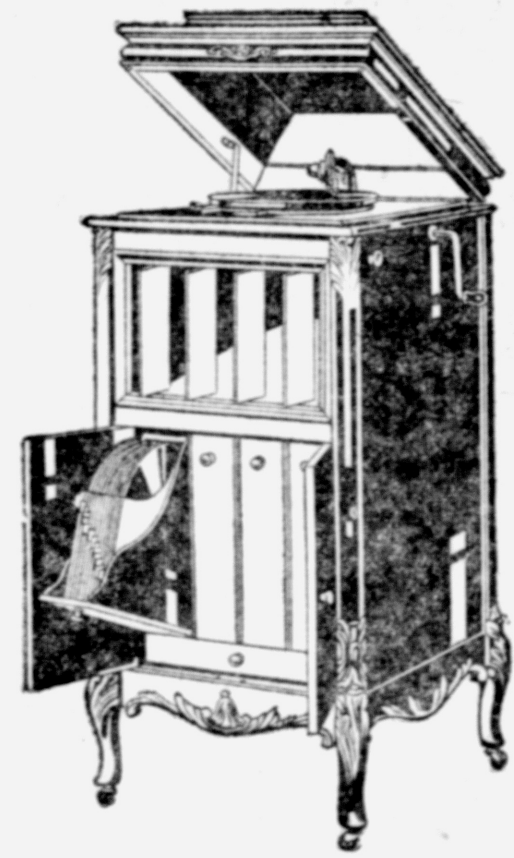

FUNSTON COMMENDS BRAVERY OF MOREY

CASEMENT DENIES GERMANY INSPIRED IRISH REBELLION

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, June 28.—Taking the witness box in his own defense in his trial on the charge of treason, Sir Roger Casement this afternoon denied that the Irish rebellion was in any way inspired in Germany.

He denied that he had received any money from Germany.
"The charge that the Irish rebellion was inspired in Germany is untrue," he said. "It was neither made nor directed by Germans."

Sir Roger was presented as witness after the presiding justices had overruled a motion to quash the indictment against him on technical grounds. He spoke earnestly, but with a slight show of nervousness.

LEAGUE GIVES BOY BATHERS IN RIVER A DRESSING ROOM

North side kiddies will be a happy bunch when they read this.

The North Side Progressive league last night appropriated a sum of money for the erection of a small dressing house at Copeland park for the use of juvenile bathers in Black river. Work will be started immediately it is understood, and it is expected the structure will be ready for use within a few days. No trouble is anticipated in gaining the consent of the city park commission.

A protest was entered against the street car company, charging high school summer school students from the north side full fare. High school students during their regular term of school ride for half the usual rates. C. F. Figgie, Frank Geisenheimer, A. R. A throng estimated at 3,000 turned out last night for the first municipal concert of the North Side Military band at Copeland park, given by City Bandmaster Funk.

The Delight of Children

The self-developed, inner-flavour of New Post Toasties bear a unique attraction for the kiddies—they even like them dry from the package for their lunches. A box of Toasties provides "cats" that will delight the children.

New Post Toasties are usually served with cream and sugar, in which form the flavour is more pronounced and the flakes more delicious. These New Toasties do not "chaff" or crumble in the package and they don't mush down in cream—both common defects of old-fashioned "corn flakes."

Then, too, notice the tiny bubbles on the flakes, produced by the quick, intense heat of a new patented process of making which imparts delightful crispness and a substantial body to the flakes.

New Post Toasties are a vast improvement over any old-style "corn flakes."

AMERICANS WARNED

AGAINST STAYING IN TROUBLE ZONE

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The government is redoubling its efforts to get Americans out of Mexico before possible trouble begins.

Orders have been sent by Secretary Daniels to Admiral Winslow instructing him to urge those hesitating not to wait.

Seventy Americans, including twenty-one detained in Guanajuato, left Mexico City for Vera Cruz in a special car yesterday, according to a message from Consul Rodgers to the state department today. About 500 have left Mexico City and 300 now remain.

YOUNGSTERS RUN AWAY TO JOIN THE MILITIA

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 28.—Returning from a visit with his family at Lake Chetek, Capt. P. C. Atkinson, adjutant of the Third regiment, was commissioned today to locate Cecil Knowles, 17, and Hugh Mayer, 16, who wrote to their parents that they had run away and enlisted. Both are under age, and enlisted without their parents' consent. They are not in any company of the Third. They will probably be sent home if found.

COAST CITIES LOSE ADVANTAGE

WASHINGTON, June 28.—An order taking away from Pacific coast cities the advantage they now enjoy over intermediate cities in transcontinental rates was issued by the interstate commerce commission. Slides in the Panama canal and the transfer of practically all vessels heretofore in the coast trade to the ocean trade, as a result of the war, have removed the water competition, the commission held, that formerly justified granting lower rates to coast cities.

Two women can remain good friends if they don't meet often.

FUNSTON DENIES BATTLE REPORT

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 28.—General Funston denied today the reports of a clash between the Eleventh cavalry and Carranza troops near Ahumada. He said if wounded Mexicans had been taken to Colonia Dublan he would have received General Pershing's report on it before this.

The Mexicans concentrating south of Naco, Arizona, have been bluffed by General Davis' show of strength, Funston believes.

SHACKLETON SAW STRANDED FELLOWS

BUENOS AIRES, June 28.—Lieut. Sir Ernest Shackleton was actually within sight of Elephant Island, where twenty-three companions of his South Polar expedition are marooned, when he was compelled to turn back by heavy ice, according to dispatches from the Falkland Islands yesterday.

Shackleton believes the men will survive until weather conditions make it possible for another relief expedition to reach them.

The punch was served upon the screened porch which had been converted into a cool green retreat with ferns and hangings of green. Baskets and vases of brown-eyed Susans, roses and syringas added to the attractiveness of the effect. The Misses Florence Bechmann and Marie Gerard presided at the punch bowl.

Uncle Sam Tells How

Unclean the Fly Is

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The ordinary house fly carries about with him, recent government experiments show, an amount of uncleanness equal to 2 to 3 per cent of his weight.

If the average man were so unclean as that, he would have on his body about four pounds of filth.

A cow or horse as dirty as a fly would carry twenty to twenty-five pounds. The fly does not weigh much, but it can harbor millions of disease-giving germs. As a matter of fact, the dirt on a fly is about one-half bacteria—bacteria of many kinds, large and small, thick and thin, long and short.

If cut of its abundance of bacteria the fly deposits a typhoid germ in a can of milk, there is every likelihood that in a short time there will be enough typhoid germs in that milk to make it a dangerous, frequently a fatal, poison.

In the experiments in this subject conducted by the department of agriculture, a number of flies were caught and washed in sterile, distilled water. Uncleanness to the amount of from two to three per cent of the flies' weight settled at the bottom of the tubes, and of this about half was bacteria.

In addition there remained in solution in the water enough dirt to discolor it.

The fly can and does carry the germs of tuberculosis. Flies which have been allowed access to animals suffering from this disease were caught and washed in sterile water.

Inoculation tests from them subsequently proved that they bore living, virulent tubercle bacilli.

Opera Singer Weds

New York Man

NEW YORK, June 28.—Miss Kathleen Howard, who is to sing at the Metropolitan Opera house next season, will be married tomorrow to Edward Kellogg Baird of this city. The ceremony will take place at St. Thomas' church. Miss Howard is a contralto, and sang at the Royal Opera house at Darmstadt several seasons, after several years of study in Paris and Germany. Upon returning to this country she sang with the Century Opera company, of which Mr. Baird was president. She has attracted wide attention not only as one of the coming stars of the American operatic stage but also for her adoption of Chinese dress, which she finds more rational and more economical as well as much more artistic than the usual garb of women.

New York Woman

Dies at Age of 105

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 28.—Mrs. Mary Monroe, 105 years and 8 months of age, died here early today. Up until the last few days she had always been active and in good health. On her last birthday she led a dance with her 85-year-old son, S. E. Monroe, as her partner.

A Real Daughter

Of the Revolution

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 28.—Mrs. Mary Jane Skidmore of this city, who, according to all information available, is one of three living daughters of the American Revolution, will celebrate her 87th birthday tomorrow. The event will be by patriot exercises decreed by the national chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and in charge of the local chapter, Mrs. Skidmore's father, Jonas Frazee, served three years under Washington, heard the Liberty Bell ring at Philadelphia and was presented a Bible by Mrs. William Henry Harrison while the latter's husband was president of the United States.

Mayor Declines

To Aid Cupid

CLEVELAND, June 28.—There won't be any marriages at the city hall so long as Harry Davis is mayor. He just won't help Mr. Cupid, that's all. Davis explained he has religious scruples against a mayor marrying couples.

"A minister ought to perform all marriages; it's more satisfactory to everybody, especially the bride," said Davis. "There hasn't been or won't be any marriages at the city hall so long as I'm mayor. I want to have an untroubled conscience when I leave office."

In previous administrations marriages by the mayor were events in the dull routine of city hall life.

BORDER FIRED BY UNREST REPORTS

EL PASO, Texas, June 28.—Reports from Washington that congressional leaders regarded war as almost a certainty has fired the border. Home guards have been formed in a score of towns to protect themselves against local Mexicans when the border patrols join Pershing in the drive against the Carranza armies.

The border communities are patriotically preparing receptions for the militia expected to be quartered with them in the coming week.

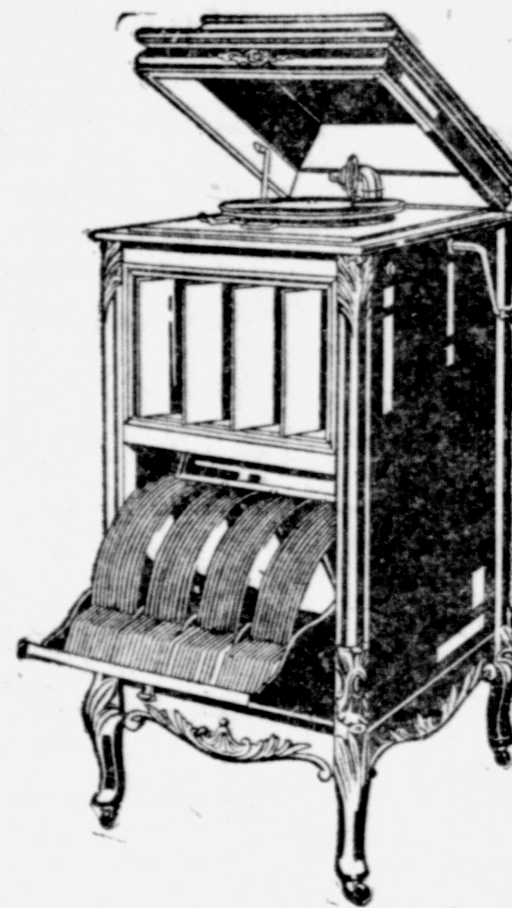

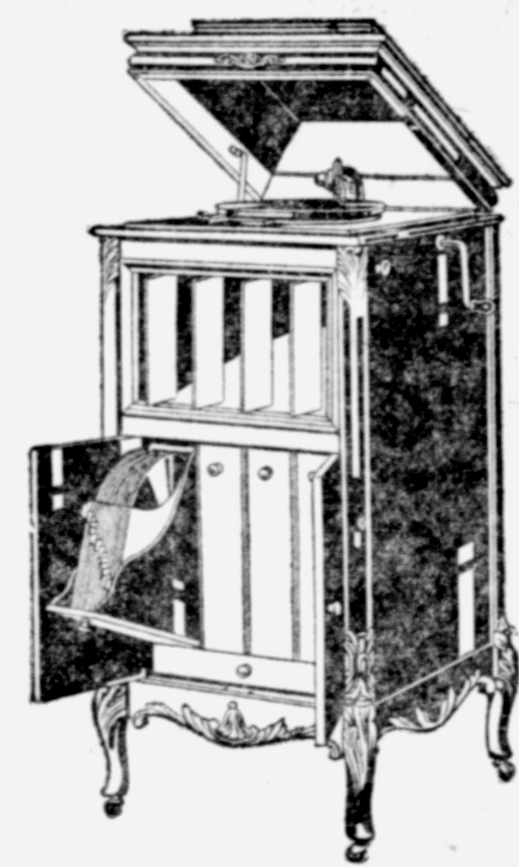

FUNSTON COMMENTS BRAVERY OF MOREY

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 28.—"Captain Morey deserves great commendation for his exploit at Carrizal. It certainly was a brave thing for him to do. I am glad to command so gallant an officer."

That was the tribute paid by one soldier to another when the United Press asked General Funston for an expression regarding Captain Morey yesterday afternoon.

YOUNGSTERS RUN AWAY
TO JOIN THE MILITIA

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 28.—Returning from a visit with his family at Lake Chetek, Capt. P. C. Atkinson, adjutant of the Third regiment, was commissioned today to locate Cecil Knowles, 17, and Hugh Mayer, 16, who wrote to their parents that they had run away and enlisted. Both are under age, and enlisted without their parents' consent. They are not in any company of the Third. They will probably be sent home if found.

COAST CITIES LOSE ADVANTAGE

WASHINGTON, June 28.—An order taking away from Pacific coast cities the advantage they now enjoy over intermediate cities in transcontinental rates was issued by the interstate commerce commission. Slides in the Panama canal and the transfer of practically all vessels heretofore in the coast trade to the ocean trade, as a result of the war, have removed the water competition, the commission held, that formerly justified granting lower rates to coast cities.

FUNSTON DENIES BATTLE REPORT

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 28.—General Funston denied today the reports of a clash between the Eleventh cavalry and Carranza troops near Ahumada. He said if wounded Mexicans had been taken to Colonia Dublin he would have received General Pershing's report on it before this.
The Mexicans concentrating south of Naco, Arizona, have been bluffed by General Davis' show of strength, Funston believes.

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
LONDON, June 28.—Taking the witness box in his own defense in his trial on the charge of treason, Sir Roger Casement this afternoon denied that the Irish rebellion was in any way inspired in Germany.
He denied that he had received any money from Germany.
"The charge that the Irish rebellion was inspired in Germany is untrue," he said. "It was neither made nor directed by Germans."
Sir Roger was presented as witness after the presiding justices had overruled a motion to quash the indictment against him on technical grounds. He spoke earnestly, but with a slight show of nervousness.

The Delight of Children

The self-developed, inner-flavour of New Post Toasties bear a unique attraction for the kiddies—they even like them dry from the package for their lunches. A box of Toasties provides "cats" that will delight the children.

New Post Toasties are usually served with cream and sugar, in which form the flavour is more pronounced and the flakes more delicious. These New Toasties do not "chaff" or crumble in the package and they don't mush down in cream—both common defects of old-fashioned "corn flakes."

Then, too, notice the tiny bubbles on the flakes, produced by the quick, intense heat of a new patented process of making which imparts delightful crispness and a substantial body to the flakes.

New Post Toasties are a vast improvement over any old-style "corn flakes."

ORPET UNSHAKEN IN MAIN POINTS

COURT ROOM, WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 28.—Will Orpet seemed victor in the battle of witnesses with Prosecutor Joslyn when Orpet's trial for Marian Lambert's murder recessed for lunch today with his testimony still unshaken in any main point by Joslyn's grilling cross-examination. Joslyn forced Orpet to go over every detail of his trip to Lake Forest to describe minutely how he walked up the stairs of the garage where he slept, how the moon and the sun and the stars and the snow looked at night and on the day he met Marian.

Although Orpet's lawyers said today Joslyn had failed to shake the main points of Orpet's direct testimony so far, Joslyn declared Orpet had been forced by cross-examination into the following conflicting statements:

That he had impure thoughts toward Marian for many months, instead of only once, as Orpet testified.

That Orpet had sent Marian two bottles of medicine, instead of one as he originally contended.

HOUSE SURRENDERS GUARDS GET NO AID

MOTORBOATERS PLAN BIG MEET IN NEAR FUTURE

Several score of new names were added to the membership of the La Crosse Motorboat club at a meeting at the Elks' club last night, when the membership committee reported.

The motorboaters decided upon issuing a call for what they hope to be the largest meeting of their career, within the next two or three weeks.

They will then take up the matter of how plans should be made for securing the promised recreation pier, beach, and launch quay at Riverside park. The motorboat men are after a membership of 400 active motorboat owners.

both houses to get together and adopt a draft resolution.

While the two houses are fighting over whether to pay the dependents of family men who must leave for the front or to exempt such men from service, army officers in charge of the Mexican situation are unable to make plans.

Leaders have practically agreed that if war with Mexico results, congress will remain in session despite the anxiety of members up for reelection to get home to their campaigns. Chairman Simmons of the senate finance committee believes this necessary so that troop movements may be authorized, volunteer acts passed and appropriations made as called for.

RECRUITING DOOR CLOSED TODAY

The fact that both the recruiting stations in the city had their doors closed tight this morning seems to point to the conclusion that the authorities have abandoned active work in this field as far as La Crosse is concerned. It is still possible, however, for men to enlist in the militia here by notifying the proper authorities. Sergeant Frank Miller who is in charge of the marine enlistment station here expects to benefit by the slackening up in the work of the two companies.

GENERAL BARRY ORDERS TROOPS TO MOVE WHEN READY

Louis & Southwestern to Waco, Texas, thence to San Antonio.

Speaking for General Barry, a captain at headquarters declared that there had been no delay whatsoever in the central department due to the army officers.

"We have decentralized so that one man at each camp is now responsible for the action entraining of troops. All red tape has been cut and no cogs have been left ungreased. The fact that troops in the eastern department are moving before ours is due solely to local conditions in the National Guard. Eastern guards were better equipped and most of them were up to strength, while we had to contend with organizations that were not even up to minimum strength."

"Supplies were being shipped by express to speed up," continued the captain. "We have been working here in the headquarters until 3 and 4 in the morning, and are back at 6 o'clock in the morning. We are centralizing our efforts upon Illinois, Missouri and Kansas, the points best situated geographically to move the troops to the border."

"Fustion wants men and rifles. He will get them from the central department. All ammunition has been concentrated at the border, while cavalry and other necessities will be supplied after the men get there."

Orders Received.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 28.—Positive orders were received by Colonel E. M. Lewis this afternoon to entrain the First, Second and Seventh regiments of infantry for the border immediately.

Missouri Not Ready.
NEVADA, Md., June 28.—Missouri troops will not leave for the border before Friday, if that early. General Clark said today. He explained that the guardsmen are all mustered into federal service but are being delayed by the physical examinations.

Train equipment has been assembled and ready to carry the Missouri forces to Laredo, Texas, for many hours.

Iowa Guards Equipped.
DES MOINES, Iowa, June 28.—With orders issued for the movement to the border of troops in adjoining states, Iowa's 4,000 guardsmen were being equipped for border service and until this is finished state authorities do not want them to leave. There are 1,000 of the 4,000 men at Camp Dodge without uniforms and only today did a quarter of them receive rifles and belts.

Cavalry Not Ready.
IOWA CITY, Iowa, June 28.—Iowa's only cavalry squadron may not go to the border for half the men have refused to take the federal oath and, as Major Leonard B. Wildman, U. S. Who's Who? They All Are Who

The La Crosse Tribune, La Crosse, Wis. Gentlemen:

I have been not a little embarrassed through an impression which seems to have gained ground—in fact it has been so stated in your papers—that I was the chairman of the original committee of nine appointed by the joint meeting of the Board of Trade, Manufacturers' association, etc., for the purpose of combining our various organizations into the new Chamber of Commerce. I desire to correct this impression. As a matter of actual fact, the committee of nine has never had a chairman. The man who presided at the meetings, and to whom credit should run as chairman of the committee, if any member of the committee is entitled to such credit, is Mr. E. S. Hebbard, who, as president of the Board of Trade, we considered an ex-officio member of the committee, although as a matter of actual fact, he was not appointed to the original committee.

The work of Mr. Hebbard on the committee has in my opinion not been sufficiently recognized, and I feel, entirely aside from the mistaken impression that I served as chairman, that there is a very great amount of credit due Mr. Hebbard for his earnest, conscientious work in the way of getting the committee together and directing its deliberations.

In this connection I should like to say that during the past fifteen to twenty years it has been my pleasure to work with a great number of different committees of men in consideration of various matters, but never have I worked with any committee which brought to its deliberations a more conscientious respect for the responsibilities placed before it than did this committee; and while it has fallen to one or two of us to place the findings of the committee before the public, there is no credit due any one which is not equally due the other, unless such credit shall run to Mr. E. S. Hebbard, who voluntarily and to the neglect of his own business affairs has carried the bulk of the burden of the day.

I shall be most appreciative if you will assist me in placing this matter in the right light before the people of La Crosse.

Respectfully,
A. L. GOETZMANN.

EL PASO, Texas, June 28.—Four prominent American mining men arrived in El Paso from Parrel after narrowly escaping being mobbed at Santa Rosalia and again at Chihuahua. Anti-American demonstrations were held in both towns as the Americans' train was passing through. The presence of armed Carranzista guards prevented the mobs from dragging the Americans off the train.

The refugees were T. G. Hawkins, Jr., A. M. Morris, H. A. Buick and R. C. Higley. They reported heavy Mexican troop movements northward, estimating that 10,000 Carranza soldiers were enroute to Chihuahua from southern points. This would bring the total strength of the de facto government's armies in the state to more than 55,000 men.

FAILING OF WATER SUPPLY LEADS TO PLOT'S UNCOVERING

BY WILBUR S. FORREST
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 28.—Only the fact that the water supply in the home of a Kerry county farmer ran out on the night before Good Friday led to the uncovering of Sir Roger Casement's plot to head a rebellion in Ireland.

John McCarthy, a Curraghane farmer and the first witness when Casement's trial was resumed Tuesday revealed the fact.

McCarthy arose before daylight on Good Friday morning and discovered that there was no water in the house. He went to a well a mile distant. On his return he saw drifting near shore the collapsible boat in

How This Country Went to War With Mexico in 1848

How the U. S. Went to War With Mexico in 1848
Outrages along the border and on the property of Americans who had obtained concessions in Mexico stirred both countries. Mexico was full of military chiefs rivaling for national leadership.

An American army was sent to the border. Clash followed, on American soil and American soldiers were killed.

The war was fought without a formal declaration of war by congress. President Polk simply declaring a state of war existing by reason of Mexico's acts.

DILLON AND MORAN SET FOR BIG BOUT

NEW YORK, June 28.—Jack Dillon, the Indianapolis "man killer," and Frank Moran, "Pittsburgh bear cat," are all set for their ten round battle tomorrow night. They have finished hard training.

Dillon, who will give away thirty pounds and five inches in height when the men climb into the ring at Washington park, has been doing three times the work that Moran has during the past two weeks.

He will go into the ring a slight favorite.

Moran is staying at the Fifth avenue home of a rich Pittsburgher. The auburn haired batter finished with a light workout at White Springs.

Army Rations

Seeing that an army chaplain doesn't drill, has no men to command except his orderly, and hasn't any company to bother him with records that demand bookkeeping, it might be suspected that Captain George R. Longbrake has nothing to do. That is a wrong suspicion. Geraldine. The sky-pilot is a busy man, because he is postmaster of the regiment. Yesterday morning he got just 100 pounds short of half a ton of mail for the regiment, and it took a detail of eight men to bring it the mile or more across the rifle range to the Third's outlying camp. The other chaplains are an equally busy case. They got their heads together yesterday and a result is that General Holway has placed a wagon at their disposal to carry the mail to their quarters.

The proudest rookie in the Third regiment is Frank Weigant, Company B. He was the only green man in the command to make a "possible" or perfect score on his first session with the service rifle.

Company B had strawberries for supper last night. A peddler who went through the regimental street ran across Captain Rupp, and he added the delicacy to the army grub.

D. W. MacWillie, chairman of the executive committee of the Citizens' Patriotic Protection association, which has pledged the soldiers that they need not worry about the folks at home, was welcomed into camp yesterday. He was the guest of Company B, eating dinner with the eleven men from his plant, who are in the company.

Street car men of La Crosse in the Third regiment received with pleasure yesterday a copy of a telegram sent to General Orlando Holway by President Clement C. Smith from Milwaukee, asking him to inform his employes in the service that they will be allowed full pay for three months, and full pay minus their government pay for the succeeding nine months.

The telegram says "further consideration will be given in due time to the matter of service beyond the twelve months period referred to."

The order applies also to employes of the commands from Sheboygan and Green Bay.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero
Victor Sayre of the Cubs, whose home run swat gave the Bruins a 1 to 0 victory over the Pirates in the first part of a double bill.

Homers were responsible for two other wins. "Home Run" Baker's circuit blow made it five out of six from Washington for the Yanks. It was Baker's third homer of the series.

Joe Jackson of the White Sox, brought courage to his team-mates with a four-base clout off Bagby of the Indians, tying the score. His two doubles later also counted for runs.

The Yanks are now only half a game behind the Senators.

Sisler's clouting was responsible for the Browns' first win of a double bill with the Tigers. The Mound City first sacker got four hits out of four times at bat and stole two bases.

The Tigers copped the second. Ty Cobb stole three bases.

Cobb had a run-in with a fan in the ninth inning of the first game. He said the fan abused him. Cops, umpires, and his fellow players had to pull the Georgian out of the stands.

The Red Sox fell on the slants of Johnson, a rookie the Athletics tried out, and drove him from the box after running up a total of seven runs. The Mackmen lost, Ruth holding them to two runs.

Hans Wagner and his Pirates suffered a double loss to the Cubs. Prendergast blanked the Pittsburghers in the first game, allowing three hits. The second bill was a walk-away for the Chicagoans.

Long Cy Williams of the Cubs joined the club's hospital staff. Cy turned his ankle cavorting around first sack.

Tesreau pitched in the pinches against the Dodgers and the Giants won, 1 to 0.

The Braves won their fourth straight game from the Phillies when four hits and a walk gave them three runs in the fourth. Barnes held Philadelphia runless.

Long distance hitting by the Reds beat the Cards, 8 to 2.

WYCKOFF TO INDIANS

COMPANY M IS MOURNING FOR QUARTERMASTER

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 28.—M company continues to mourn the loss of one of its most beloved members, Quartermaster Sergeant Claude Thompson. Twelve years of service in the guard were ended for the quartermaster Saturday, when the regular army surgeon took one look at his left hand and waved him aside as unfit for muster into the United States service. Thompson is minus two fingers on his left hand.

Sergeant Alvah Hill was at once appointed company quartermaster in Thompson's place.

Although out of the company, Thompson will still remain in its work in an unofficial capacity. He said that he is going to prosecute a vigorous search for recruits for his old command, and asked The TRIBUNE to send to him all persons who want to know what to send the boys and how.

Billy Hurtgen, Jr., is writing daily letters home to his mother for permission to go to the border with the Third. Billy has been in camp with the hospital corps since the mobilization on Thursday, and he wants to go on. He asserts that he will go all the way, and claims that Mrs. Hurtgen has "almost" agreed to give permission. Billy is fourteen.

CORRECT ABUSE OF EXPERT TESTIMONY HUDNALL ADVISES

OSHKOSH, Wis., June 28.—In his opening address to the members of the State Bar association in annual meeting here today President George B. Hudnall discussed the problem of expert testimony.

"There are many evils connected with the practice of law," he said, "which need remedying, and it ought to be one of the aims and purposes of this association to call the attention of the profession and of the public to these evils, and suggest a remedy. I desire at this time to call your attention to one of these evils. It adds much to the cost of litigation and generally ends in a farce, so far as getting at the truth is concerned. I refer to expert testimony. Senator Hudnall reviewed the efforts of members of the bar for half a century toward such a remedy and pointed out that not much had been accomplished.

Subject to Abuses
"Expert testimony in civil as well as criminal cases is subject to the abuses inherent in our present system," he said, "and the medical expert is not the only one whose testimony should be regulated by law. Expert testimony has come to stay. In the proper administration of the law we must of necessity avail ourselves of the testimony of men skilled in science and art, in mechanics, medicine, and many other fields of human endeavor. We should endeavor to change the method by which expert testimony is now received in courts so as to eliminate the evils which have grown up around its reception, and yet not destroy the great benefits courts receive from this kind of testimony when correctly and impartially given by the true expert."

Points to Franklin
In an address on the life and teachings of Benjamin Franklin which showed much thought and study, Burton Hanson of Chicago, general counsel for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, drew a lesson for the present day lawyer.

"We are constantly admonished by the declaration of rights of our state, constitution that the blessing of a free government can only be maintained by a firm adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, frugality and virtue, and by frequent recurrence to fundamental principles," he said. "I fear that in recent years, in common with the people of this generation everywhere, we are not heeding this wholesome admonition of our fathers. And because this declaration of our constitution is but a recast of the life and teachings of Franklin, I have thought it not out of place to review before this gathering of lawyers the career of this great philosopher, diplomat and statesman."

DESERT WEATHER TO BE TROUBLESOME TO GREEN GUARDSMEN

COLUMBUS, N. M., June 28.—The blistering summer sun, intensified by stark desert sands blinding to the eyes, will be the first difficulty thousands of militiamen from cooler climates will face on their arrival for border patrol duty. The high altitude in the El Paso district also may prove troublesome.

The temperature here yesterday was 116 degrees. A week ago the thermometer reached 121 in the shade and broke. Altitude and lack of humidity make this bearable here. In fact it is not more noticeable than a temperature of 95 in Chicago or New York. Militiamen stationed in the Douglas and Hachita districts will face about the same weather conditions, but the Yuma country with lower altitudes, is said to be the hottest in the United States.

It has rained in Columbus only once since the Villista raid in March. The blinding desert south of here forced the soldiers to wear colored goggles. The green militiamen will require about a fortnight to accustom themselves to the weather.

RURAL CREDITS REPORT APPROVED

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The conference report on the Moss rural credit bill has been approved in the house by a vote of 313 to 10. Democrats demanded a final roll call on the measure, in view of the republican platform which condemns the bill as unsatisfactory.

B ROOKIES SHOOT WAY TO FAME—ALL CAMP SOLVE TODAY

BY MARK R. BYERS

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 28.—Under the tutelage of Sergeant Thomas Sholes and Corporal John Solter, Company B "rookies" made a proud record on their first experience of the target range Monday. One, Frank Weigert, made a perfect score in his first five shots, making five bull's eyes for a mark of 25. All of the men averaged around 20, which is considered exceptional for recruits.

Company M did not keep scores, but there were a number who made between twenty and twenty-four. No body in Captain Fowler's company made a "possible". In fact, Weigert was the only "rookie" in the regiment to make that record. Companies

L and K of Sparta and Tomah, also, made exceptional records.

Company B's rookies made the following scores:

William Hatke, 20; Tlmer Gustafson, 21; Albert Bishop, 19; William Renner, 19; John Verse, 24; Leo Campbell, 18; Otto Knothe, 15; Frank Weigert, 25; Emil Knothe, 20; Luther Philter, 24; Robert Giles, 20; Joseph Tikal, 19; John Redmond, 24; Edward Pawlek, 20; George Haefner, 15; Harry Wilcox, 22; Herbert Wilcox, 22; Albert Skaff, 19; Sam Markos, 22; Martin Konop, 22; Weizel Stupka, 20; Earl Wilhelm, 21; John Goshke, 21; Roy Fredericksen, 18; Charles St. Jacques, 17; Walter Withee, 24.

A Sore Army

This is a sick and sore camp today. Touch the nearest man on the left arm and you can have a fight free of charge. Everybody's temper is on edge, and almost everybody's arm is swollen. The hospital corps and the U. S. A. examining surgeons had their innings yesterday, and shot quarts of anti-typhoid serum, and used up thousands of vaccine points on the arms of the brigade.

In most cases the reaction caused no more than a sore arm and a swelling, in some cases accompanied by a backache. But some of the men were strongly affected. A few of the Third topped over in faints when the hypodermic syringe pierced their arms, but these the surgeons said were chiefly victims of over active imaginations. A great many of the men were scared by the resounding phrase "anti-typhoid inoculation," and reported at the hospital tents alarmed at they didn't know what.

About half of the brigade was treated yesterday. The rest were to be finished up this afternoon. There will be a second inoculation with the typhoid vaccine in two weeks, and in the interim the men are forbidden liquor in any form. The village of Camp Douglas was deserted last night, comparatively speaking, most of those having been treated being content to keep to camp.

Exam is Rigid

Federal examination of the Milwaukee cavalry troop was completed yesterday, and the men are recounting to the members of other commands the severity of the inspection. There is nothing perfunctory about the examination. It opened the eyes of the guard officers.

Officers of the U. S. Army Reserve stand in a row and the men file past them. One officer examines the face and neck for swollen glands; another examines the chest for possible defects in the heart and lungs; another the abdomen, still another the pelvis and a fifth keeps an eye out for flat-foot and stiffness of the knee joints. After running this gauntlet, the men are taken into another room where the eyes and ears are examined.

The troop has been sworn in as United States regulars, second of the state units thus to go under Uncle Sam's control. As fast as the medical examination, vaccination and typhoid inoculation of the three regiments can be completed, they also will be sworn in. At the rate of progress of the preliminary details, that cannot be done short of tomorrow night. The actual swearing in, however, is a simple and short ceremony. Each company is lined up, and stands at attention, the mustering officer reading the oath, while the men salute.

Joy Over New Equipment

The La Crosse companies and all others in the Third regiment are to be equipped with the government's latest model of pack, which makes the entire heavy marching order kit into a compact bundle carried on the back, between the shoulders. It is looked upon as a great improvement over the cumbersome, heavy marching order in which the troops went away, with their haversacks, canteens and other impedimenta flapping from their belts at each step. The new pack makes the blanket into a compact roll carried vertically between the shoulders, reaching to the waist. The haversack and entrenching tool is strapped above this, and the whole weight depends from the shoulders. It leaves the chest and waist free. Only the bayonet scabbard and the canteen are hung to the belt, the canteen being slung around to the rear or the right hip, and fastened closely to the belt, so that there is no banging against the leg.

The arrival of this improved equipment occasioned surprised pleasure among the officers. It had been expected that the equipment would be the same as that already supplied by the government.

The new packs are sufficient in number only for the First and Third. They will turn in their old equipment, and from this the Second will be equipped up to war strength.

Criticism Washington

High guard officers are not backward about criticizing the U. S. army system which refused to allow full war-strength equipment to be distributed to the state guard. The Wisconsin military, they say, had pleaded with Washington two years ago for the war-strength equipment, so that emergencies could be met promptly, even offering to erect a storehouse at Camp Douglas for its safe-keeping in charge of a federal custodian.

The delay over the arrival of equipment, and the fact that it has arrived from the government arsenals in confusion, unaccompanied by bills of lading, guard officers say is a strong argument for the Badger suggestion.

A Day of Shooting

Yesterday the recruits were again out on the rifle range, theirs being the only activities, outside of routine police and guard duty, which survived syringe-charge of the surgeons. They were set 200 yards from the target, and took five shots each, kneeling, standing and prone. In the afternoon they tried five rapid-fire shots apiece with battle sights at 200 yards. Some of them hit the targets, but there was a great deal of waving of the red flags which signal the misses.

Up to 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the vicinity of Camp Douglas resounded with noise that made a creditable imitation of a regular battle, with the intermittent and rapid firing of the recruits on the range, and the stuttering drum of machine guns. The first regiment machine gun company had its "lead-squirts" out, and cut down several trees in satisfactory fashion. They shoot 600 bullets to the minute without straining themselves, and are only thirty pounds weight. Visitors found the drumming, vicious little guns the chief attraction on the reservation.

Mules Fight a Draw

The machine gun companies had their first session with the famous battery mule yesterday, and the affair might be called a draw with perfect safety. The mules were eventually saddled and led through their evolutions, but not before there were bloody noses and much bucking, kicking and language. The companies were given eleven mules each out of the notable batch of sixty that Lieutenant C. E. Butters procured from Viroqua and vicinity. They were

PREPAREDNESS IN JAPAN WAS WISH OF LATE EMPEROR

Program for Military and Naval Expansion Is Unaltered in the Eastern Land Because Sanctioned by Him

IS WORSHIP OF GOD MORE THAN LOYALTY FOR THEM Consider Dead Emperor a Descendant of Heaven

III—The Religion of Loyalty BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27.—The statesmen of Japan have announced that the ambitious Japanese program for military and naval expansion is fixed and unalterable. It is beyond human power to change or amend, because the late emperor sanctioned it, and now that the emperor is dead, no man may modify a line of it.

The people of Japan take this for an adequate explanation of the government's course. The more intelligent may see that the nation is already staggering under a bigger debt than she can carry, that the people are being taxed to the limit, and under the projected program will have to be taxed still more—but when the statesmen are called to account, they have only to fall back on the sanctity of the imperial approval for their battalions and battalions. The incident is significant. It is worth careful consideration, because it brings out a condition running all through Japanese society, that constitutes one of the principal safeguards of the Japanese state in its present form, as well as one of the greatest menaces to any nation which willingly or unwillingly, is forced to oppose Japan.

Loyal to Emperor

No country whose relations with Japan promise to be as complex and delicate as those of the United States can afford to be ignorant of the immense part played in Japanese life by the sentiment of loyalty to the emperor. It is more than loyalty; it is worship—not the worship men pay to a hero, but the worship men give to a god. The emperor is a direct descendant from heaven. He can not be said to rule by divine right in the old European sense of the term, for he himself is divine. Japanese loyalty to the imperial line has all the combined force of patriotism and religion. The Japanese citizen exists for the greater glory of the emperor. Service of the people is no program for a Japanese politician. Service of the emperor must be the main plank in his platform.

It is possible to serve the people by lowering taxes, by introducing industrial reforms, by sticking to a policy of peace and quietude. Such a program makes a poor sort of glory for the emperor and the mikado. To magnify him before the nations of the earth, to carry his flag supreme over the Pacific, to make his army and his navy invincible, to make him the wonder and the master of the Orient—that is the sort of thing that makes an emperor's glory, and a consideration of Japan's history, ever since she grew big enough to fight shows that she has stuck to it closely.

No-Reverses

She has fought three wars in the last two decades; her arms have never met a serious reverse. Her place has been won by the sword. She has gotten great areas of new territory, she has taken a high place among the nations that have to be reckoned with in world politics, she has annexed a three-thousand-year-old kingdom, she has startled the world, in a way; and yet, the mass of the Japanese people might be better off today if she had stayed at home and attended to business. The people were never consulted. Their well-being never came into consideration. It was the glory of the empire. This creed of loyalty to the mikado is not a pacific policy. It is a creed of militarism, as it has proved again and again.

The exaltation of loyalty into the chief of the virtues has other significant results. It explains a great many things about Japan. It throws light on the marvelously rapid way in Japan took on all the trappings of western civilization, and at the same time it casts a certain doubt on the idea that her progress in western ways entitles her to infinite credit.

Japan took up the industrial culture of the Occident because the little group of men who ruled her fifty years ago, as a little group of men rule her today, had the intelligence to see that she must either join the procession or be trampled under foot by it. The people were never consulted. The ignorant and superstitious masses regarded railways and telegraph lines with all the fear and hostility that might have been expected from them. They offered no appreciable opposition because they had been trained for centuries, as no other people ever have been trained, in the custom of yielding to authority. The relation of every rank to every other rank was fixed and iron-bound. Retainer owed allegiance to his lord, and the lord bowed to the mandate of his overlord. At the head of the complex system stood the mikado, whose word was law. When that word went forth, to disobey was not only a civil and political crime, but a moral offense of the blackest, and a sin against divinity. Ages of this form of government made the Japanese nation the most docile and tractable people on earth where their own authorities were concerned.

"Showing Off"

So when the statesmen at the helm used the imperial rescript to back up a scheme for railways, the nation swallowed its objections and it built railways. In the same spirit, it accepted all the new things. The creed of loyalty had robbed it of the privilege of protest, by making that protest a sin. Even so today, the creed of loyalty makes it a sin to tamper with things so mundane as plans for dreadnaughts and half a dozen new army divisions. The late emperor gave them his approval. There is no more to be said.

Another side of the creed of loyalty is the exaggerated national pride that degenerates into national self-consciousness. A casual observation of Japan must be discounted by remembering that the island empire is probably "showing off." Japan is worried about what the world thinks of her, to an extent that it is hard for an American to appreciate. We would like to have the world think well of us, but if the world can not see the manifold virtues of these United States of America, then so much the worse for the world. Not so Japan.

She is determined to appear before the nations in the best possible light, and to that end she conducts press campaigns, grants great subsidies to her enterprises, covers up her real industrial conditions and her industrial inefficiency from the visitor, makes a showing out of all proportion to her real wealth and commercial importance. This Japanese characteristic could be passed over with a smile, if it were mere puerile vanity. But it is deadly serious pride and Japan is ready to fight it.

Japan gets great credit and admiration from the thoughtless for her industrial advance, that carried her from the middle ages to the twentieth century almost at a bound. This advance is taken as evidence that Japan can become an England of the Orient, a great factor for eastern Asia. Japan herself cherishes and encourages the illusion in characteristic fashion. It is no more than an illusion. Japan might become the England of the Orient if there were no England, and no America of the Occident. In straight, free competition with the west, Japan stands hardly a chance, for all her geographical advantage and she knows it. It is a fact that plays havoc with all her most vital institutions, from her pride to her pantry. So she comes to the relief of her industries with subsidies and the sword. She alternates freight rebates with the domination of Chinese provinces.

Pride of Race

Her pride covers more than the military and commercial glory of the empire. It extends to the race itself. Japanese seriously believe that they are the most remarkable of the peoples of the earth. Perhaps it is partly our fault; we have been telling them so for fifty years. They believe in their mission, which is to unite east and west, to dominate the Orient and act as a mediator between Orient and Occident. Their great men tell them, and they believe that the Japanese is the moral and intellectual superior of any other human being. For this reason, race prejudice against them has never stirred them deeply. Race prejudice only cuts when the injured race has a consciousness of inferiority.

But the Japanese pride is affronted by any discrimination against Japan as a nation. Her pride and her creed demand that the proudest of nations recognize her as an equal. Anything less is an insult to the whole fabric of Japanese society from top to bottom. Japan will go to any length rather than to labor indefinitely under the least stigma of inferiority.

Another effect of the Japanese religion of loyalty worth considering is its effect in questions of war, and the declaration of war. It prevents the forming of an opposition party under such circumstances, because such opposition is deprived of the sanction of principle which it often has in a western country. There are what purport to be powerful peace societies in Japan, yet neither before the Chinese nor the Russian, nor the present German war did they make any opposition worth mentioning. Neither do the peace advocates of Japan, either Japanese or American, attack the Japanese army and navy expansion schemes. They contest themselves with attacking the military program of the United States of America.

An understanding of the two closely related elements of national pride on the one hand and religious loyalty to the emperor on the other is vitally important to an understanding of Japan and the Japanese. These elements explain largely the aggressive militarism of Japan in the past, and her vaunting and ruthless ambition today. They explain the perfect solidarity of the nation in the face of a foreign opponent. Then hint at the lengths to which Japan will go in her effort to put herself in the front rank commercially and industrially in spite of natural handicaps. They give a significant indication of Japan's real attitude toward such matters as exclusion and discrimination.

These national characteristics mean more than that. They mean also a nation militant, the stifling of pacifist protest, the moral justification of war as a means of serving the state—they mean the placing of the nation as an instrument in the hands of a few men. That instrument has been turned against China, against Russia, against Germany. It behooves the United States of America to consider whether it may be turned next.

The Coming Baby! Hooray! Hooray!

Nothing else can so completely endear us to the present and the future as the expected arrival of a baby. But in the meantime the comfort of the mother is of vast importance. There is a splendid external remedy known as "Mother's Friend" which exerts a wonderful influence upon the expanding muscles. They become more pliant, stretch without undue pain, make the period one of pleasant anticipation instead of apprehension. In a series of splendid letters from all over the country mothers tell of the great help "Mother's Friend" was to them. Even grandmothers tell the wonderful story to their own daughters about to enter the state of motherhood. Get a bottle of "Mother's Friend" today of your nearest druggist. Use this splendid help with your own hand guided by your own mind. For a free book of interest and importance to all mothers write to Bradford Regulator Co., 409 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It relates the personal experiences of many happy mothers. It tells many things that all women should be familiar with; it is at once a guide and an inspiration. Write for this book.

to that penniless young dreamer, Gerald Holmes?" Mrs. Martyn threw this question abruptly at her niece, whom she had just summoned to her apartment by telephone.

"Yes, Aunt Caroline," admitted Marian, with a smile, for, although fond of her worldly aunt, she was also amused at her sometimes. "But my decision wasn't based on pennies so much as on principles. It's making money the first consideration that makes so many marriages a failure."

"My dear, those idealistic notions are out of joint with these practical times."

"Idealism is needed now more than ever before to offset this materialism that demands money down before a marriage takes place."

"That might be a better argument," said Mrs. Martyn, "were it not that idealistic people get quite as hungry and require almost as many clothes as the rest of us, and hence are as much affected by the high cost of living. Would you mind telling me whether you had thought of that?"

"Yes. Even idealistic people know there is a practical side of life, and we're not going to marry until Gerald has 'arrived' in his literary work, or has demonstrated that he cannot hope to arrive. In the latter case, we'll adjust ourselves to his salary as a local journalist and hope for occasional windfalls from our joint efforts in literary work."

"Dreaming, as usual," Mrs. Martyn shook her well-groomed gray head. "Still, I've hopes that you'll wake up before it's too late. Come with me to the seashore and make yourself agreeable to the men you meet there. What do you say?"

"If it's challenging the genuineness of my love for Gerald, I say no."

"It isn't that, but you haven't seen enough of the old world and of people to know whom you want to marry. Besides, dear, I want you with me, and if you're determined to dabble with writing, you'll have the most interesting life about you there to draw material from."

Marian, who had the writer's true instinct for material, had a bit of real enthusiasm in her voice as she added, "and I'll be delighted to go with you."

While Marian swam, golfed and flirted with the eligibles at the seashore in a way that misled her ambitious aunt, Gerald Holmes busily clicked away on his typewriter in a manufacturing section whose laborers produced the wealth which made

PIMPLES ON FACE BURN AND ITCH

Became Worse and Worse. Face Disfigured. In Blotches. Were Red and Scaled Over.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"I had pimples on my face which gradually became worse and worse all the time. They burned and itched and I would wake up often at night and my face would burn dreadfully and it was disfigured for the time being. At first the pimples were in blotches but gradually scattered, and they were red and festered and also scaled over."

"Then I got some Cuticura Soap and Ointment. At first I put the Cuticura Ointment on and then I bathed my face with warm water and Cuticura Soap, and I had not used them more than two weeks till I noticed a change and now my face is entirely healed." It possible for the rich eligibles to live in luxurious idleness. Every day letters passed between Marian and Gerald and every letter contained a bit of description of the life around the writer. The contrasts were so striking that Gerald got the biggest plot idea he had ever had, and he sat day after day and sometimes until far into the night, working on his first novel.

"Kindling the World's Kinship" was the title of his book, which came out early in the fall, when the summer idlers were returning to the city. It was the story of a millionaire mine owner, who, when he went for the first time to inspect conditions in his mines in the hope of averting a strike, was overwhelmed with the responsibility resting upon him in providing the means of existence for that small world of workers. With the aid of a miner and his daughter, who proved a sort of prophet and prophetess for their people, the mine owner faced this responsibility so frankly and discharged it so fully that life afterwards meant infinitely more for him and for the laborers and their children than any of them had dreamed that life could mean. Gerald published the book over the name of "Gery Marion," thus sharing its authorship with Marian, but covering the identity of both of them.

At Mrs. Martyn's first reception after her return to the city this book was a main topic of conversation. A prominent New York man was suspected of being its author, and so well were the character types drawn that various well-known society people were thought to have been the inspiration of the author. At Marian's request, Mrs. Martyn had invited Gerald to the reception, and he had the unusual experience of hearing his book criticised with absolute candor. He had the very unpleasant feeling that John Morehead, one of the most distinguished-looking men present, was devoting himself to Marian and of seeing by Marian's manner that those attentions were not unwelcome. Gerald knew that Morehead was one of the many young married men whose marital infelicities had been aired in the newspapers, but in the midst of his anxiety over this unpleasant discovery Mrs. Martyn called him to her and presented him to Mrs. Morehead.

"Everybody's discussing 'Kindling the World's Kinship,'" began Mrs. Morehead, "and as you are a writer perhaps you'll divulge some of the tricks of the trade."

She was a handsome woman, with a restless look in her dark eyes that did not harmonize with the grace and dignity of her carriage. "Do you think a man who writes a book like that does it to help the laboring classes or to give vent to his envy of the plutocrats?"

"He probably had in mind helping the plutocrats quite as much as the laborers," began Gerald.

"And incidentally placing himself

IF YOU WORRY, READ THIS

Worry never brought any good to anybody. But, you say, "I don't worry because I want to. I worry because I can't help it." Or, "I worry because I have so much to worry about."

We all have our troubles and worry, of course, makes matters worse. The patient generally recognizes this fact without being able to profit by it.

The doctor who could meet this nervous condition and cure it would be the most popular medical man alive. But he cannot do it because the form of nervous exhaustion known as neurasthenia, of which worry is a characteristic symptom, must be cured by the patient himself. That is why you should write today for the book "Diseases of the Nervous System" and read the chapter on "Neurasthenia." So many people have read it and written back, "This hits my case exactly. I am giving the treatment a trial and being benefited," that the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., has had a lot of these books printed and will send you a copy free on request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a non-alcoholic tonic, particularly suited for nervous, neurasthenic people. Your druggist sells them or they will be mailed postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

on a financial plane between the two," snarled a faultlessly groomed and much bored looking man of sixty. "I can't see why we should concern ourselves with the vapors of some young upstart who writes pot-boilers."

"Perhaps because it is always the hit dog that howls, Mr. Mason," Mrs. Morehead's sarcasm was direct and cutting, but she turned from the older man to Gerald, and said, quite seriously: "I'm not the one to say whether this book is good literature, but I know it has made me shudder at the thought of the amount of money thrown away on gew-gaws by the few when it could be used to make life more worth living for a lot of people."

Gerald saw that the woman was intensely interested and that she was seeking to regain a normal outlook on life, but his interest in her suddenly ceased to exist as he saw Marian and John Morehead approaching them after a tete-a-tete over their tea, which they had evidently forgotten to drink in their enthusiasm for the subject upon which they talked so earnestly. Following his glance, Mrs. Morehead also saw Marian and John Morehead moving toward them, and her head went a bit higher as her lips tightened noticeably.

"Mrs. Morehead," said Marian cordially, "this is the opportunity I've been hoping for, and I'm going to throw myself on the mercy of all three of you at the same time. To you, I have to confess an unfair monopoly of your husband all through the afternoon; to your husband, I have to confess my responsibility for some of his identical speeches being put into the mouth of the hero of 'Kindling the World's Kinship,' and to Mr. Holmes, I must confess that I have allowed the authorship of his book to become known to Mr. Morehead as the last step in proving that it was not prompted by envy of the wealthy classes."

"Mr. Holmes, forgive me for suspecting that you could envy anybody," said John Morehead gallantly, "but until a few moments ago I didn't know you were Miss Martyn's fiancée. I congratulate you."

"Thank you, Mr. Morehead," said Gerald, warmly, "and you're fully forgiven."

"But we must keep that authorship a secret among us for a while longer," said Marian, with a blush and a laugh, as she and Gerald started away from the Moreheads, "for we don't want our honeymoon spoiled by enraged millionaires."

John Morehead looked into his wife's eyes and asked her if they couldn't take a little honeymoon trip to the Pennsylvania mountains where his mines were. The haughty head lowered a little, and the words that tried to form themselves on her trembling lips were less eloquent of her willingness than the glad brightness that shone through the tears in her eyes.

As for Mrs. Martyn, the pride she felt in the literary achievement of her niece and nephew-in-law was responsible for the authorship of the book becoming an open secret in a very short time after it was confided to her.

CONCENTRATION OF CARRANZA TROOPS WORRY OFFICIALS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 28.—Concentration of Carranza troops opposite Naco, Ariz., continued to be a source of apprehension to army officers today. The Mexican forces are said to be in much larger numbers than at first reported, and advices early today said there were 6,000. A Carranza army ten times that size is reported stationed today at Cananea, ninety-seven miles south of Naco. The American forces are understood to be fully prepared for an attack on Naco or Bisbee.

General Wood, notified General Funston early today that the Massachusetts National Guard had started for the border. Preparations for distributing and maintaining the militia are being made all along the border today. Funston and his staff are believed to be arranging the troops so a sweeping movement could be started from several points simultaneously in case invasion is ordered, and at the same time leave adequate protection for the border against raids.

Strict Censorship
There is a strict censorship on all news of troop movements, even the railroads of the state having adopted the policy of divulging no movements over their lines, without waiting for the government to suggest secrecy. Small detachments of eastern guardsmen are known to have reached Texas, but their destinations are not known.

turned east from Eighth street after going one block.

It is described as being unusually large, and black or some other dark color.
The identity of the automobile's occupants is unknown to the police and the district attorney's office. District Attorney Otto M. Schlaach and Chief of Police John B. Webber, who arrived at the scene as Mrs. Dahl expired, immediately began a search for the owner of the automobile. With practically the entire police force aiding them, they worked on the case until this morning.

On Way to Store
Police are keeping an eye on every garage in the city today. All cars were examined as they returned last night.

Aside from a clear description of the rear of the car, which police are withholding at present, they are without a clue.

Mrs. Dahl was starting on a belated trip to a grocery store. She was slowly crossing the street.
Witnesses say Mrs. Dahl hesitated when she saw the machine approaching. Several cars are said to have been in the block at the time of the accident. Mrs. Dahl was suddenly seen to step in front of the machine, which she evidently thought was going to take a different course. She was thrown backwards and was found unconscious.

Mr. Dahl was struck by the car's left lamp, the glass of which was broken. The glass was scattered for a block, and was later picked up by police.

The crash was heard by Tax Commissioner Joseph J. Frish, 930 South Eighth street, residing next door to Mrs. Dahl. He was reading in the front room of his home, and ran to the street. The fact that when he reached Mrs. Dahl, whom he saw lying in the street, he could see nothing of the escaping car, makes certain the belief that the car dashed away at full speed.

Car Dashes Away
Witnesses to the accident were John Schnittgründ, 818 South Ninth street, Ronald Peterson, and Arthur Peterson, brothers, 813 Mississippi street; Richard Collins, 910 South Eighth street; Carleton Prinz, 818 South Ninth street, and C. H. Wrobel, 419 North Ninth street.

Arthur Schwalbe and a party of friends were driving north on Eighth street. They were some distance from Mrs. Dahl when she was struck. Mr. Schwalbe says that he saw an automobile in front of him suddenly speed up and pass him, traveling very rapidly. Mr. Schwalbe turned around in his car in an endeavor to ascertain the retreating car's number. He declares that the rear light had been extinguished.

There is no doubt, both police and witnesses believe, that the occupants of the machine, realizing that they had hit someone, cut out their rear light, making it impossible for those who saw them, to get their license number.

Blood was then flowing from Mrs. Dahl's nose and mouth. She was carried into her home by bystanders, although she died before this could be accomplished and before medical aid could reach her.

Saw Machine Turn
Peter Dagensh, a resident of the 1000 block on South Eighth street, told police that he saw the car turn east from Eighth street after it had traveled a block.

With these fragmentary statements of witnesses as to the construction of the rear of the car, the situation of windows, and rear equipment, the police are today prosecuting a diligent search. Every garage in the city is being watched closely, and an endeavor is being made to learn of all cars which arrived home late.

Later today the police were in possession, they said, of a valuable bit of information. An addition to the rear of the automobile, which witnesses described clearly, the police found, was added to the car by a local garage a few days ago. Aside from the broken glass, which was scattered along Eighth street as the machine escaped, the police are

WHO'LL GIVE LA CROSSE BOYS A PARROT TO TRAIN

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., June 28.—There is a secret sorrow eating into the hearts of the La Crosse boys in the sanitary detachment. Even while they were assisting to squirt anti-typhoid serum into their old schoolmates of B and M companies yesterday, they couldn't get up the gleeful spirit which should go with the work according to tradition. The main trouble is that the sanitary detachment hasn't a mascot. Even the band has a dog, but the hospital corps hasn't anything but mosquitoes. Yesterday they got their heads together, and decided that the very best mascot they could have would be a parrot.

So when the TRIBUNE correspondent dropped into the hospital company's street yesterday, he was handed the following document, setting forth the boys' request:

"The La Crosse Tribune,
"La Crosse, Wis.:
"Dear Sir:—While it may be asking too much we would like, through your help, to obtain a mascot for our tent. We are members of the sanitary corps of the Third Regiment of the Wisconsin National guard and sleep in the same tent. The members of the other companies have mascots of every kind, among which are included white mice, gophers, cats, dogs and a skunk, and after talking the matter over we decided that we would like a talking parrot better than anything else. If you can ask through your columns, perhaps some kind person would be glad to give us one which is pestiferous to them. We guarantee its vocabulary to be increased. If you will comply with this request we will appreciate it very much.
"Truly yours,

placing hope of locating the men through this clue.

Little time elapsed before the entire police force was put to work on the case. Telephone messages were sent to places of all roads leading out of the city. This brought nothing last night.

Mrs. Dahl was 74 years old last Saturday. She was a native of Nor-

SUGGESTIONS TO SICK WOMEN

How Many Are Restored To Health.

First.—Almost every operation in our hospitals performed upon women becomes necessary through neglect of such symptoms as backache, irregular and painful periods, displacements, pain in the side, burning sensation in the stomach, bearing down pains, nervousness, dizziness and sleeplessness.

Second.—The medicine most successful in relieving female ills is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It regulates and strengthens the organism; it overcomes disease.

For forty years it has been making women strong and well, relieving backache, nervousness, ulceration and inflammation, weakness, displacements, irregularity and periodic pains. It has also proved invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Third.—The great number of unsolicited testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time published by permission, are proof of the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, in the treatment of female ills.

Fourth.—Every ailing woman in the United States is cordially invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life way. She came to America fifty years ago, and settled in Coon Valley, where she resided until twenty-five years ago, when she came to La Crosse. Her husband died thirty-five years ago.

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 28.—Mrs. Katherine Vance Harrison, 15 years old, today was convicted of the murder of W. L. Warren, aged hotelkeeper, and sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

Mrs. Dahl is survived by five daughters and a son. They are Louis Dahl, La Crosse; Mrs. Percy Rochester, La Crosse; Mrs. Christina Kittle-son, Mrs. George Birdsall, Mrs. Arthur Coppin and Mrs. Nellie Johnson, all of La Crosse.

Eighteen grandchildren also survive.

A version of the accident, given by Mrs. Dahl's children, is that the aged woman waited on the curbing until a car traveling south had passed her. She then was struck by the south-bound machine.

Indignation in City
Indignation filled the city today when it was learned that the driver of the car which struck Mrs. Dahl had escaped. The fact that the machine struck the aged woman may have been excused, it was pointed out, but the course taken by the occupants, in turning out their tail light and fleeing, caused strong feeling against the unknown men. District Attorney Otto M. Schlaach stated that charges of manslaughter would be placed against them if caught.

EXERCISE AND GRECIAN BEAUTY WHAT IT MEANS.

Many thousands of women are now a-days paying attention to physical culture and the proper exercise of their body muscles, where, thirty years ago or fifty years ago there was no thought expended on this science which is quite necessary to physical beauty. The reason the Greeks, both men and women, excelled in beautiful and symmetrical forms was because of the attention they paid to the proper exercise. Then, too, they were untrammelled by corsets, shoes and the inconveniences of clothing. To the mind of some women the idea of physical exercise conveys only the idea of hard fatiguing work. Mild exercise continued day after day is best for the body and spirits and health. Without proper exercise there can be no health, and without health there can be no real beauty.

There is no stronger proof of the sound remedial value of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription than that it restores the wasted form to its wonted roundness.

The mighty restorative power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription speedily causes all womanly troubles to disappear—compels the organs to properly perform their natural functions, corrects displacements, overcomes irregularities, removes pain and misery at certain times and brings back health and strength to nervous, irritable and exhausted women.

It is a wonderful prescription prepared only from Nature's roots with glycerine, with no alcohol to falsify stimulate. It banishes pain, headache, backache, low spirits, hot flashes, dragging-down sensations, worry and sleeplessness surely and without loss of time.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. Address Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

YOU NEED

to aid nature occasionally when your liver is sluggish, your stomach disordered or your bowels inactive. Let this safe, mild, dependable remedy regulate these organs and put them in a sound and healthy condition.

MOREY INDICATES RESPONSIBILITY SPLIT

WASHINGTON, June 28.—An interview with Captain Morey, survivor of the Carrizal battle, was forwarded to the war department today. It indicated as his letter and other interviews had, that perhaps the American forces were in part responsible for the clash with the Mexicans.

Inasmuch as Morey was not present at the parley between Captain Boyd and Mexican Commander Gomez, Secretary Baker refused to regard it as the final word on the situation.

AUTO BACKS THROUGH BIG BARRON WINDOW

Becoming confused when police, enforcing new traffic regulations, ordered her car off of the corner of Fifth and Main streets last night, a young lady from West Salem lost control of her machine and backed it over the curb in front of the E. R. Barron store. The car ran into one of the huge plate-glass windows, smashing it.

EXILES REPORTED REACHING MEXICO

EL PASO, Texas, June 28.—General Maximo Castillo, who planned the Gumbre tunnel disaster in which a score of American travelers lost their death. General Manuel Banda, who once sold out the Villista garrison in Juarez to the Carranzista generals, and Jose Flores, another former Villista leader, are reported to have reached Chihuahua from exile in Cuba. Reports say these men have been given commands in the Carranzista army.

Nearly Any Case of Tuberculosis can be helped in some measure by prompt and proper attention to right diet and hygienic living if taken in hand in the early stages. Eat pure, well-cooked food and avoid excesses. Live in the open air as much as possible and always sleep with windows wide open.

If such measures do not arrest the progress of the disease, try effective medication. For the best chances for recovery will be found in a strengthening of all normal body functions.

In many cases Eckman's Alternative has helped in this needed up-building. In any case it may be tried without risk, since it contains no poisonous or habit-forming drugs. Sold by Geo. E. Mariner, Chas. E. Bey-schlag and leading druggists.

ELFENBRÄU

Flavor

Beers are not alike in this regard. Most beers may be good and admittedly pure but lack the desirable Malt and Hop Flavor. Beer too sweet is insipid. ELFENBRÄU is distinctive in flavor, slightly bitter, appetizing and wholesome; proof that just the right amount of hops and malt is used in brewing.
